A feeling of dullness, languor, and depression means that your liver isn't doing its part. That means impure blood, to begin with, and all kinds of ailments in the end. But you can stop them in advance. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood, and rouses every organ into healthy action. It prevents and cures all diseases arising from a torpid liver or from impure blood. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Scrofulous, Skin and Scalp Diseases—even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula), in its earlier stages, all yield to it.

The makers of the "Discovery" claim for it only what it will do. They guarantee that it will do it. If it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, they'll return the money. Nothing else that claims to purify the blood is sold in this way; which proves, no matter what dealers may offer, that nothing else can be "just as good."

THE FIELD AGAINST BLAINE

Such is the State of Affairs in the City of Minneapolis.

The Ex-Secretary of State is the Dog in the Manger,

And His Wife is the Person Who Cries Seek 'Em.

A Great National Convention Paralyzed by a Petticoat.

True Inwardness of the Fight Against Ben Harrison.

Rival Factions Riot on the Streets and Police Are Called in to Prevent Bloodshed—The Convention in Detail—Gossip Among Delegates.

Minneapolis, June 9.—(Special)—The American public cannot get away from this disgraceful feature of the republican convention—the president of the United States, the leader of a great political party, to be defeated for re-nomination by the worst and most corrupt elements of his party, by men who to-day exert more influence in the councils of that party than the honest business and industrial classes who are little more than voting machines, directed by the master hands of Tom Platt, Matt Quay, Wm. Pitt Kellogg and others of like nature.

This convention is not only controlled by these men, but delegates are huddled like sheep in the market.

Every movement in convention is in the interest of delay to exhaust the funds of the more susceptible delegates and to tire out the others.

As fast as they weaken they are captured for a consideration and the Blaine shouters thereupon start out with their brass band to announce the change of sentiment from Harrison to Blaine.

This is the situation, and if Harrison is defeated the republican party must answer for the sins of this convention, and for the setting up of disgraceful politics above the legitimate work of a party that boasts of its greatness and integrity; boasting that is false in all respects.

A republican from Washington, thoroughly posted in the politics of the capital, told this story last night in confidence. Said he:

Mr. Blaine has not at any time been a candidate for the presidency against Harrison, but he has now accomplished all he undertook, the defeat of Harrison in convention; back of this determination being the purpose of Mrs. Blaine to humiliate and punish Mrs. Harrison.

The statement a few days since that both sides were afraid of each other, needs no other proof than the advocacy of dark horses by the Harrison and Blaine factions.

McKinley is to be Harrison's legatee providing the chief fails, and Sherman is to be the rallying name for the Blaine men at the proper time.

The intention is to swing over New York and Pennsylvania to the senior Ohio senator and make such a large break that the Ohio delegates will feel obliged to fall in line.

From out of the much flayed chaff a few grains of fact can here and there be picked out.

At midnight Wednesday it was evident that the McKinley boom had assumed proportions that cannot much longer be controlled by either of the warring factions.

It was noticeable that all the afternoon delegates from the different states called at his rooms to pay their respects, and in the various headquarters the major was more freely discussed than on any previous day.

It must be confessed that all this talk appeals to the state pride of the Buckeye delegates, and the thousands of Ohioans who live in this section, and are now in Minneapolis, are booming him.

McKinley is a clean man, able, strong in principles, but a man who has the courage of his convictions. With him as the republican candidate, the campaign of education would continue, though the Prince of Protection would not be so strong in November, when the silent dropping of the ballots of free men will take the place of partisan enthusiasm, wrought to the highest pitch by the blare of trumpets, the roar of a cannon and the red lights of the street parade.

The situation this morning is rapidly shifting to a complete change of base.

For weeks it has been the field against Harrison. Now it seems to be the field against Blaine, with Blaine not strong enough to be nominated unless Tom Platt opens another barrel, and sends squads of southern delegates home in comfortable style.

That may be accomplished if the convention shall be prolonged until next week.

If balloting is allowed this week without dilatory tactics, McKinley will be nominated. Of course the kaleidescope may change several times before Saturday night, but this is the picture as it appears now.

Massachusetts indicates the purpose of casting a goodly vote for McKinley on the second ballot.

Except for the jealousy of Mr. Foraker, the governor would at this moment fare better in all the states that should find an attractive nebulus in the Ohio delegation.

Foraker cannot break the McKinley boom but he might give it wonderful impetus, except for his own vaulting ambition.

The visiting clubs paraded the streets Wednesday night, and made a magnificent appearance, the most interesting feature of which was the marching of an infant, a weak infant, braced up for the occasion by the McKinley tariff—an infant industry—employes of a pearl button factory from Eau Claire, Wis.

As this one tariff item in the McKinley law has advanced the price of that useful little article several hundred per cent., it is somewhat anamalous for a party that insists that the tariff is not a tax, to parade with such transparancies.

But it is folly to particularize when the whole business of this convention is a bundle of inconsistencies.

THEY WERE OUT GENERALED.

Quay and Clarkson too Much for Big Chauncey M. Depew.

Minneapolis, June 9.—(Special)—The magnificent organization of office-holders representing a president, who ought to be strong enough to obtain a renomination without a scramble, was completely routed at the commencement of the battle. The report of the committee was printed in advance and each delegate had a copy before the convention hour. Yet the Harrison people were too dull to comprehend the situation, and too stupid to know that the Blaine tactics of delay was an open trap to be avoided, a trap into which the administrationists, from Depew down to the cross-roads postmaster delegate, took a header and went to the bottom.

The entire scheme of wearing out the Harrison delegates was expressed in rule six, which reads:

"The report of the committee on credentials shall be disposed of before the report of the committee on resolutions is acted upon, and the report of the committee on resolutions shall be disposed of before the convention proceeds to the nomination of candidates for president and vice-president."

The rule was adopted without a dissenting vote, and within ten minutes thereafter the Harrison crowd was made forcibly familiar with the scheme.

The committee on credentials requested another day for deliberations, and got Foraker, chairman of the committee on resolutions, to make a similar request, and the convention was obliged to adjourn until Thursday.

Harrison had votes enough in the convention to make rules to suit the occasion, but the leaders were asleep and Matt Quay and Clarkson scored another point.

Immediately after the adjournment the Blaine and Alger crowd resumed their spring plowing in the southern plantations with good result.

The anti-administration stock was above par.

McKinley posed according to program, as the presiding officer. The whole convention and the galleries understand that he not only covets the nomination, but expects it.

It is apparent in every act, look and word.

He may overdo it this time.

Wednesday afternoon the Blaine people were unusually jubilant, and some of them are confident they will be able to defiantly and successfully wave the plume over the defeat of Benjamin Harrison.

The dark horse was a little pale Wednesday afternoon.

GIVEN GOOD ADVICE.

Mr. Blaine Could Never Carry New York State.

New York, June 9.—The Times says: Members of the Union League club, who are friends of ex-Senator Warner Miller, are very much aroused over the attitude Mr. Miller has assumed in favor of Blaine at Minneapolis. While they appreciate his reluctance to support Mr. Harrison, they insist that he does not represent the sentiment of his friends by his support of Blaine.

The anti-Platt sentiment runs very strong in the Union League club, and the Blaine movement is simply regarded as a very desperate attempt to beat Mr. Harrison.

Telegram after telegram was sent to Mr. Miller yesterday remonstrating with him on his support of Mr. Blaine.

He must have been flooded with messages during the day, and they were not of a character calculated to aid him in retaining his peace of mind.

By last night he was very well informed that a large per centage of his friends here were indignant at the course he had adopted. A sample of dispatches sent by leading members of the club is the following:

"Don't make the mistake of voting for Blaine. Your friends are not for Blaine. They are for Harrison, or a third man. Blaine could not carry this state."

THEY ARE FOR BLAINE.

California Alternates Sorry They're Not In It.

Minneapolis, June 9.—At a meeting of the alternates of the California delegation at Minneapolis, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the alternates of the California delegation believe that the expressed wish of the people of their respective sections are unanimously in favor of James G. Blaine as the nominee of the Minneapolis convention, and regret that they have not the power to cast the votes of California for him.

(Signed) E. C. VOORHEES,
J. J. MATTHEWS, Chairman.
Secretary.

RIOTING IN THE STREETS.

Rival Factions Meet and Police Called on to Stop the Row.

Minneapolis, June 9.—Late Wednesday afternoon it was announced by the younger men of the Blaine faction that advantage would be taken of the beautiful evening to make a monster Blaine demonstration by marching through the city with the Blaine banners and other insignia of the "Plumed Knight," headed by the bands from the various cities.

The Harrison people heard of this program, and although the managers did not advise any counter demonstration, the younger element determined that the president and his cause should not be entirely lost from sight in the Blaine demonstration of the evening. Both factions turned out and marched through the principal streets, and finally both made for the rotunda of the hotel. There they met and marched around in circles to the tunes of discordant yells and shouts for Blaine and Harrison.

At the head of the Blaine column was a banner carried by an Indiana man bearing the inscription, "If Blaine is nominated we will carry Indiana by ten thousand." Another Blaine man carried a similar banner bearing the still more irritating inscription, "If Harrison is nominated we will lose Indiana by 20,000."

These banners excited the ire of the fiery young Harrison men of Indiana, and a sudden rush was made, and before the Blaine people had an opportunity to defend their colors, the two banners were pulled down and torn to pieces. Instantly the Blaine people retaliated by an onslaught on the Harrison forces, and their banner bearing a portrait of the president and some inscriptions certifying to his political grandeur were also pulled down and torn to pieces and trampled under foot, and the police were called upon to prevent what might have ended in the shedding of blood.

Of course, all this provoked a great deal of bad feeling, and for a time it seemed as though there would be a general fight.

For two hours the hotheads of the rival factions thronged the hotel rotunda, and made it impossible for guests to pass either in or out of the hotel, but shortly after 10 o'clock they finally dispersed without any personal damage to anybody, but after having created a great deal of discord in the ranks of the republican party, particularly of the rival factions of the Hoosier state.

REFERS THEM TO BEN.

Blaine Says Never a Word About His Resignation.

Boston, June 9.—All day long a small army of newspaper men laid siege to ex-Secretary Blaine, but he invariably refused to see any of them until last evening, when he accorded an interview to a representative of the Boston Post.

Being asked the reason for his resignation from the cabinet, the secretary said: "I shall have to refer you to the other side for the answer to that question."

"By the other side do you mean Mr. Harrison?" was asked.

"Certainly," was the reply, but no further statement in connection with that subject could be elicited from him.

The ex-secretary assured the Post representative that he had received no word from Minneapolis except the regular bulletins available to all who could read the papers; neither had he sent any message whatever there.

In reply to further questioning he declined to state whether even now he would accept the nomination for the presidency if tendered him.

During the forenoon and the earlier portion of the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Blaine remained in the seclusion of their apartments at the Brunswick.

But very few callers were admitted to their presence, among the favored ones being Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, John W. Simpkins, state senator, and president of the Massachusetts Republican club, and his sisters, and General Manager Sanborn of the Boston & Maine railroad, who called at Mr. Blaine's request to make arrangements for the trip to Bar Harbor.

A few telegrams were received by Mr. Blaine from friends in various parts of the country, tendering their good wishes and congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine returned to the Brunswick about 7 o'clock, when tea was served in their rooms.

NOT SAYING A WORD.

Cabinet Officers Have Buttoned Up Their Mouths.

New York, June 9.—A morning paper says: General Benjamin F. Tracy, secretary of the navy, arrived in New York from Saratoga and went to the Gilsey house. He was beseiged by an army of reporters and personal friends during the day. Russell Harrison and he breakfasted together.

"What do you think of Mr. Blaine's resignation?" he was asked.

"I don't care to discuss that matter," said the general, with a smile, "nor do I care to make any statement as to who his probable successor will be. As you know, I was not in Washington when the secretary of state resigned, and I am consequently not a bit better posted on the subject than the newspaper reading public."

General Tracy was pretty nearly as close as the proverbial oyster when asked his opinion as to the probable result of the Minneapolis convention.

"How does the fight look? Well, I think President Harrison will get the nomination; but I do not base that belief on the accounts I get of the struggle up there from the daily newspapers. The accounts are very conflicting, are they not? The Blaine newspapers figure one way and the president's friends have no trouble in showing by cold figures just how he will get the nomination."

"Have you heard of the rumor that you are to be asked by President Harrison to take Mr. Blaine's place?" asked the reporter.

"No, I haven't. I am afraid that is newspaper talk."

"Would you accept the position if the president offered it to you?"

"You must excuse me, as I cannot answer that question. Wait till the president so honors me and then it will be in order to give an answer to the public."

MRS. BLAINE

And Her Fight on the President—She is Resolved on Harrison's Downfall.

New York, June 9.—A story that came from Washington before Secretary Blaine resigned the portfolio of state, is very interesting just now, as showing the real reason for Mr. Blaine's resignation at this time. This story comes from the best possible source and is reliable. In effect it is as follows:

"Mr. Blaine's peculiar attitude is owing wholly to the positive influence of Mrs. Blaine. Mrs. Blaine has become within the last few weeks the very bitter and vigorous opponent of the president. She is a lady of unusual intellectual forces. She possesses an iron will. She does not often mingle in politics, but to-day her imperious will, backed by intense dislike of the president, is one of the most potent factors in the political situation. The calmest and most conservative of the republican advisers at Washington, and these are gentlemen wholly outside of the administration circle, believe that if Mr. Blaine's nomination is forced under the peculiar circumstances which surround this sudden development of the Blaine movement, he could not be elected. Mrs. Blaine has never liked the president from the day that he declined to appoint her son Walker Blaine to the office of assistant secretary of state. When this was at first proposed to the president, he said to Mr. Blaine that it would not be good policy for any official holding high place to have his son act as his deputy. He then added that he would be pleased to give Mr. Walker Blaine any other place that Mr. Blaine might himself select. Mr. Blaine suggested the position of solicitor of the state department.

"There was no intimation on his part at that time that he was at all dissatisfied with the president's act. Neither did Mrs. Blaine at any time before her son's death express anything more than ordinary disappointment over the change in the plan. Several weeks ago Mr. Blaine's son-in-law, Lieut.-Col. Coppinger, was promoted to the position of colonel. Shortly after that there was a vacancy in the army in the rnk of brigadier generals. Mr. Blaine asked to have his son-in-law promoted to this place. To this the president replied that he was at the foot of the list of colonels, that there were thirty-five honorable officers who stood between him and the post and that to jump Col. Coppinger over the whole list for no reason but that of pure favor was a proposition which could not for a moment be considered. The refusal was kindly made, and the attitude of the president was indorsed by Mr. Elkins, the secretary of war. Mr. Blaine presented the case politely, and accepted the president's view of the situation with perfect good nature. Indeed, it may be said that during the whole term of the president's administration there has never been at any meeting between the president and his secretary of state any evidence of ill-feeling upon the part of one or the other. Mr. Blaine has invariably shown courtesy and marked respect to the president, and the president has shown equal courtesy and respect to his secretary of state.

"The president's refusal to make this appointment was not accepted by Mrs. Blaine. The subject came up again and again. Mr. Harrison said at last that under no circumstances could the appointment be made, and that if he were presented with a four years' term of continuance in the white house as a consideration of making such an appointment he should still decline.

"Upon the surface, up to this particular period, there was no friction. The day following the president's final determination Mrs. Blaine called at the white house and asked to see the president. The interview which took place between them was a stormy one. Mrs. Blaine has spoken of this meeting herself, and the president has hinted to some of his cabinet associates that the conversation was remarkable in many ways. She accused the president of having not treated the Blaine family fairly, and said that he had taken particular pleasure in refusing their most modest requests. This Mrs. Blaine believed sincerely. Her appeal for a change in the president's decision in the Coppinger case was the last time she has seen the president. Of course Mr. Harrison could not change his mind and commit what he thought was a great piece of injustice, even to oblige so distinguished and worthy a lady as Mrs. Blaine. At the close of this remarkable interview, Mrs. Blaine announced to the president in clear and concise English that his decision would cost him a renomination, and that she would now force Mr. Blaine to take the field against him.

Politicians Took the Cue.

"This declaration of war upon the part of Mrs. Blaine, made in person to the president's face, was further intensified by her declaring to one of the most influential men in the administration that she really held the president responsible for her son Walker's death. If the president had not put upon him the mortification of refusing him the place which he wanted, Mrs. Blaine believes that her son would be alive to-day. This morbid frame of mind is as intense as it is sincere.

"In justice to Mr. Blaine it should be said that he was in no way responsible for this personal attack upon the president, and later called upon him, and in that call expressed the opinion that the president, of course, was right, and that he could not have acted differently. Mrs. Blaine is not a good enough politician to conceal her feelings. She is always honest and outspoken in expressing her likes and dislikes. She thoroughly dislikes the president, believes that he has done great injustice to her family in the two cases above, and has expressed this opinion very freely.

"It was the expression of these opinions which first gave the cue to the republicans who are actively engaged in working to defeat the nomination of the president. These views of Mrs. Blaine were repeated in New York and it is her influence which has kept Blaine from saying anything."

THERE WAS A LEAK.

Secret Proceedings Get Out Just Like They do From the Senate.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The publication, through the United Press, of the comments of the silver and tariff planks of the platform which appeared in the columns of the local papers filled with deep disgust the members of the committee on resolutions, who had sat up until 2 o'clock perfecting the platform, and had left it under seal until the committee should meet again at 10 o'clock this morning.

Although members of the committee were enjoined to secrecy, some of them were too much interested in the result of the committee's deliberations to keep their mouths closed and so the United Press obtained before midnight almost the exact text of the most important planks of the platform. They are correct, substantially, as published elsewhere.

ASKED FOR MORE TIME.

Credential Committee Not Ready to Report—Adjournment Taken

Minneapolis, June 9.—Bulletin—11:02 a. m.—Chairman McKinley arrives; receives hearty greeting. Hardly half delegates in seats.

11:26—McKinley raps for order.

11:30—After considerable difficulty in securing order the Rev. Dr. Brush, chancellor of Mitchell (S. D.) university, delivered prayer.

11:35—McKinley calls for report on credentials.

Chairman Coggswell says the committee is still in session; it had made diligent work and achieved reasonable progress; hopes to be able to report in full to-night at 8 o'clock; asks further time.

11:50—Sewell moves recess till 8 p. m.

Cullom resolution is that the world's fair is a great national undertaking and that congress ought to provide by legislation for reasonable appropriation for its aid.

11:40—Division was called for on Mr. Sewell's motion to adjourn until 8 o'clock to-night, and was carried 407 to 260.

NO FIGHT IN THEM.

Harrison Men Strike Out With the Bases Full.

Minneapolis, June 9.—(Special)—The administration fell down very heavily within five minutes after the opening prayer.

Before the session the Harrison men were boastful of their fighting qualities, and the local newspapers in his interest bristled with war this morning.

The courage of the Hoosier contingent slipped out of the back door at the first appearance of a scrimmage.

The motion of the Blaine men to take a recess until 8 o'clock was the opportunity for the administration to let off a cannon, but it was a fire-cracker protest that was heard.

The convention rested to give Platt and Quay time to do a little more successful sub-soiling in the Harrison corn-field.

A few more cowardly exhibitions like the one this morning will not leave a corporal's guard on duty to let the people know that the president is a candidate for renomination.

The situation among the army of office-holders swarming in the hotels and streets is ludicrous.

A glorious spectacle for civil service reformers to behold.

HARRISON HAS THE CALL.

Such Is the Opinion of the New York Sun.

New York, June 9.—The correspondent of the Sun at Minneapolis telegraphs his paper that he has procured from the chairman of each state delegation an estimate of how each delegation stands. The result shows 461 delegates for Harrison and 437 for Blaine. In submitting the table the Sun correspondent adds the following explanation:

It must be understood that whenever a point beyond 450 is reached, the calculation enters a hotly contested field, largely of negroes and southern office-holding whites, who are being pushed and pulled one way and another so that the middle ground changes its aspect every hour.

The figures are slightly pro-Harrison, and the general feeling among well-informed persons is that Harrison has the advantage.

A BEAUTIFUL ROW.

Credential Committee Have an Interesting Time.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The Blaine people met with surprise in the committee on credentials. They found a counter plan at work to defeat their purpose to approve the proceedings of the national committee in the matter of the contested seats and when a vote was taken on the delegates-at-large and one district of Alabama contested they found themselves in the minority after having confidently looked to continued victory in all the contests, a previous list of votes having showed that they were in the majority and controlled the committee by a majority of six votes.

It was only one vote by which they lost, and subsequently they pulled themselves together and carried a motion to adjourn with another motion to reconsider pending. Blaine men on the delegation said it was a set-back, but predicted that things would come out all right in the end and before the report was prepared for submission to the convention it would be found that they were again in the majority.

They said that the fight would be renewed, and that they would carry their point and seat the anti-Mosely faction in Alabama, who has been given seats by the national committee. The news, however, gave a great deal of satisfaction and encouragement to the Harrison men, who, up to this time have bitterly complaining of the way in which they were being treated by the committee on credentials. Some of their leaders expressed a fear that the committee did not propose to report at all, and were in favor of fighting the committee on the floor of the convention. From this they were restrained by the fact that defeat almost inevitably meant a loss of prestige, and they realized that on an indirect proposition where the delegates were bound by instructions they were weaker than on the ballot.

Some votes, it was evident, would also be lost through an indisposition to condemn the party leaders by such a rebuke as would necessarily be implied in an attack on the committees constituted in the regular way. The first movement on the part of the Harrison men looking to more speedy work on the part of the credentials committee was made in the convention when Cogswell of Massachusetts as chairman of the committee asked for more time.

The movement was cautious and involved no fight. It was simply a preliminary skirmish for an advantageous position. Spooner of Wisconsin was put forward by the administration men, and in two questions he gave the information that with good luck a report ought to be made to-morrow and that the permanent roll might be made up at any time so far as contested cases were concerned.

An effort made in the committee previously to have these reported in advance of the report of the contested cases had failed by a vote of 22 to 26, and it was for the purpose of effecting the fact that Mr. Spooner had made his inquiries. In speaking of the report Chairman Cogswell acknowledged to a reporter that the anti-administration men were in a majority and controlled affairs.

Whether or not the tactics pursued had the effect of accelerating the movement of the other side, for fear of a fight, or whether they were willing to show some signs of acceleration is uncertain, but when the committee reassembled it proceeded with a little more expedition, and by the time for adjournment for supper had almost completed consideration of the Alabama contests which were the worst contests and were first taken up. It is not probable, however, that the work can be completed and a report made before this evening. This will throw the nominating speeches over until Friday, and later, if there should be a hard fight waged against the report, as has been threatened by the Harrison men.

The first case called was from the Eighth district and here the report of the national committee was approved with substantial unanimity. The anti-Mosely delegates were permanently enrolled. A fight was made on Hendricks and Fitzpatrick, the representatives of the faction headed by Stephens and Gee of the "New Idea" and known as the "anti-Moselys in the Third district, but a poll showed 27 Blaine to 21 Harrison votes and they were also enrolled.

In the Fourth district it was also demonstrated that there was a good working majority and Bland and Wilson, the anti-Moselyites, were sustained in their rights to seats. The Fifth district was also carried, but when it came to the delegates-at-large and the contest over one contested seat in the Ninth the administration surprised the other side and carried the day temporarily for the Mosely, or office-holders, faction, by a vote of 24 to 23.

In describing how it was done one of the members of the committee said that a couple of fellows suddenly jumped over to the other side, one sneaked, and another was absent. A motion was made to reconsider and an adjournment was carried.

In speaking of the Alabama cases one of the committeemen who had been listening to the argument all day said they were terribly mixed up, and it was a miserable fight all around for men who ought never to have come here at all.

THE THIRD DAY.

No Progress Made and a Recess Taken.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The convention gathered slowly this morning. At 11 o'clock perhaps three-quarters of the delegates were in their seats or in the aisles, but the galleries were not half full.

It has been a cold convention from the beginning, and the coldness has never been more emphatic than this morning.

Chairman McKinley came to his seat on the platform a few minutes before 11 o'clock to the clapping of perhaps a hundred hands, and there was no demonstration at the entrance of any other of the leaders.

Even the spectacular Ingalls came down to his seat accompanied only by the clamor of his famous red necktie.

The band tried to infuse a little life into the meeting by playing a tumultuous galop, but with little success.

There was the usual collection of notables just behind the chairman's platform. Senator Casey and Senator McMillan sat side by side under the gallery.

Assistant Postmaster General Rathbone was in his accustomed place and Chairman Harry Bingham, of Pennsylvania, sat in the clerk's seat.

At 11:22 Chairman McKinley, with a number of sounding blows of the new gavel, endeavored to call the convention to order, but it was some minutes before the buzz of conversation ceased and the delegates took their seats and gave their attention to business.

Rev. Mr. Brush, D. D., chancellor of the university of South Dakota, delivered the opening prayer.

After the conclusion of the prayer the chair said the regular order was the report of the committee on credentials.

Mr. Coggswell was recognized and said: "The committee on credentials is still in session; it has been diligently at work and has achieved reasonable progress; it hopes to be able to report in full to-night at 8 o'clock and asks further time.

Gen. Sewell, of New Jersey, was immediately on his feet. Since no business could be done until the committee was ready to report he moved that the convention take a recess until 8 o'clock.

Senator Cullom had risen to interrupt Sewell, but the chair stopped him.

Then Mr. Cullom asked that pending the motion the convention receive a resolution on the world's fair.

Mr. Cullom sent to the desk a resolution which was ordered referred. It was as follows:

"Resolved, That the world's fair Columbian exposition, to be inaugurated in the city of Chicago in 1893, is rightfully considered by all classes of our citizens, regardless of their political affiliations, as a great national undertaking, and that in recognition of its character and importance congress ought to promptly provide, by appropriate legislation, such reasonable aid needed therefor as will enable the government to discharge its express and implied obligations incident thereto, and as will ensure the attainment of such results as will benefit the dignity, progress, culture, and development of the nation."

After reading the resolution was referred to the committee on resolutions.

Mr. Roberts of Illinois, presented a resolution (also referred) providing that Grand Army men be admitted to standing room, and that if any seats were vacant 30 minutes after the convention was called to order, they should be allowed to occupy them.

The resolution was received with applause. The chairman then announced that the question on the motion to take a recess.

There were cries of "no" from all over the hall, coupled with cries of "Ingalls," but in the confusion the chairman put the motion and declared it carried.

A New York delegate called for division. It was evident as the ayes stood up that the motion was carried. The clerk, however, made the count religiously. When the noes arose the opponents of the recess waived their arms to call their friends to their feet, but the effort was useless.

The chairman announced the vote as 407 to 260 and at 11:45 declared that the convention therefore took a recess until 8 o'clock to-night.

PACKED FOR BLAINE.

Harrison Men Find They Have Been Out Generaled.

Minneapolis, June 9.—Charges that the convention hall has been packed in the interest of Blaine are freely made by the Harrison men again this morning.

They say that every means legitimate and otherwise are being resorted to so that the galleries may, if need be, create a stampede for Blaine.

The possibility that the nominating speeches would be made to-day gave an added interest to the proceedings and increased the demand for tickets of admission.

A story was put in circulation that R. W. Thompson, chairman of the Indiana delegation, would make the speech nominating Harrison. This is entirely erroneous. Mr. Thompson thought that Indiana should be permitted to present Gen. Harrison's name, because he is distinctly Indiana's candidate, and because Indiana comes before New York on the roll call.

When the Harrison managers asked him to make a speech seconding the nomination he said he thought he ought to make the nominating speech.

To this the managers would not agree.

When Indiana is reached, therefore, Mr. Thompson as chairman of the delegation, will announce that Indiana has a candidate whose name will be presented later.

When New York is reached Mr. Depew will take the floor and place Gen. Harrison in nomination.

Senator Wolcott was heard to tell a delegate that it was "anything to beat Harrison now." This has been the position of the silver state delegates from the beginning.

COMING TO AN ISSUE.

The Blaine Men Cannot Longer Delay the Convention.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The latent desire of the Ohio delegation to support McKinley, instead of Harrison and Blaine, developed this morning by the appearance of hundreds of splendid lithographs of the Napoleonic looking governor.

There is no mistaking the deep inducement for McKinley. As the big plotters of politics are not yet ready for the dark horse, his excellent grooming may not be seen outside the stable door.

At no time since Sunday has it been so clear as now that Platt can nominate Blaine.

If the convention can be prolonged into the second week he has the sinues of war to accomplish it, though it is doubtful if dilatory tactics can much longer be successfully pursued.

To-day promises a substantial advance and the relative strength of the leaders will be more definitely outlined.

A HARRISON REPORT.

The President's Followers Claim to be in Good Spirits.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The presidential situation took a very significant turn last night—one fraught with possibilities of the greatest importance to the result.

An extended conference, lasting nearly three hours was held by the leaders of the Blaine forces in the Colorado headquarters and nearly all the chief politicians of the various delegations were summoned from time to time to their presence. In this meeting were Chairman Clarkson, of the national committee; Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania; Senators Teller and Walcott, of Colorado; Senator Washburn, of Minnesota, and Delegate Higgins, of Delaware. Hon. Charles Kurtz, chief lieutenant of Gov. Foraker, was compelled to be in attendance upon the committee on resolutions of which he is chairman.

At this meeting was discussed at great length the availibility of taking measures to bring more dark horses into the field, in order to draw off the Harrison vote, and thereby effect the demoralization of his forces, and result ultimately in the nomination of Blaine or some of the dark horses whose candidacy was to be encouraged.

SENATOR CULLOM.

He Says Illinois is Still for President Harrison.

Minneapolis, June 9.—Senator Cullom also came in for a share of the third candidate stories. The Illinois delegation might possibly present his name. According to the report some of the Harrison men in the hall had suggested the matter to the Illinois Blaine delegates and had asked them if they would be willing to vote for Senator Cullom on the first ballot, in order to test the chance of Cullom with his state solidly for him. The report was said by friends of Senator Cullom to be without foundation. The report in another form was circulated that Blaine was endeavoring to bring out Cullom to divide the Harrison strength and the other side asserted that the Harrison men started the Cullom boom. Senator Cullom said the delegation was stronger for Harrison than it had been and gave out for publication the following telegram received by him:

"We believe the best interests of the country would be best served by the renomination of President Harrison.

(Signed.) Elbridge C. Keith,
Norman B. Ream,
N. K. Fairman,
Lyman J. Gage,
T. W. Harvey,
W. G. Hibbard,
E. W. Blatchford."

The Iowa boom for Allison has not yet assumed significant proportions. The rumor was started this evening that the Iowa delegation had met and resolved to support the Hawkeye senator unanimously, but inquiry quickly established the falsity of this report. The Iowa delegation did not hold quite a long meeting and the advisability of opening the gate and ushering Allison into the political paddock of dark horses was fully discussed, but it was decided that time was not opportune for the Iowa man. The delegation stands about 18 for Harrison and 8 for Blaine, and will likely vote this way on the first ballot.

THE SILVERITES.

They Score a Partial Victory in the Committee.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The chief difficulties confronting the republican convention in the matter of a platform were solved, a lively time preceding the solution. Silver was the rock upon which the committee split, with the result of discord and majority and minority reports to the convention as a whole.

Silver men had their blood up, and, if defeated in the platform committee, would have asked nothing better than a square hands-up fight on the floor of the convention.

When the platform committee assembled no reconcilement had been effected in the sub-committee of five which had been appointed by Gov. Foraker to consider the silver problem.

The first matter that came before the full committee was the subject of tariff; and right here was where the silver advocates showed shrewd generalship. They doggedly set out to contest every inch of ground and embarrass their opponents at every stage of the consideration of the platform.

These bold tactics proved successful, for at 4:30, when the platfrom committee took a recess, the victory was won.

In stead of a free coinage platform separate and distinct, they had so shaped the tariff paragraph of the report, the first and most conspicuous part of the document, in accordance with what is supposed to be the heart's desire to the so-called silver states. Free coinage was let go by the board, and in its place the silver men gleefully accepted a clause pledging the republican party to the policy of a protective tariff on the old lines.

The committee having apparently satisfied the silver men with the insertion of the tariff plank of an emphatic protest against the action of the democracy in singling out lead ores and wool as the articles to be placed on the free list, supposed that the white metal men would subside.

Nothing further was heard from the westerners, though they stuck to their previous effective declarations that, with lead taken care of, the silver states could be carried by the republicans. The silver men as soon as the committee was fairly under way, discussing what should be the second plank of the platform, trotted out free silver as fresh as ever. Another hot fight ensued, and a second victory resulted for the silver men; though, as before, not what they aimed at.

The New York and New England committeemen proved far too strong to allow anything like a flat-footed declaration for unlimited coinage or anything similarly radical. The upshot was an agreement that the second plank should deal with the silver question. The compromise as to the language was that the declaration should be substantially as follows:

The American people are by tradition and interest in favor of bimetallic coinage of gold and silver; but one dollar should be as good as another dollar; that silver should be coined at a ratio to be fixed by legislation, and that the forthcoming international conference is indorsed as probably furnishing satisfactory solution of this vexed question of financial relations.

After the second fight on the silver question, the platform committee as a whole looked pretty well fagged out. The resort of the sub-committee on miscellaneous subjects was received. This dealt with the Nicaragua canal.

Judge M. M. Estee, of California, and Henry D. Pierce, of Indianapolis, who spoke before the sub-committee as representatives of the executive committee of the Nicaragua canal congress, just held in St. Louis, were granted all that they asked. The sub-committee reported a plank recognizing the Nicaragua canal as of transcendant importance to the United States, in view of its necessity in time of war, and its great utility in forwarding the interests of American productions and commerce, and recommending that all proper steps be taken to secure the building of it by American capital.

At this point adjournment followed. The two planks already completed were placed meanwhile in the hands of a revision committee composed of Gore, of Nebraska; Platt, of Connecticut; Teller, of Colorado; Bracket, of Massachusetts, and Thompson, of Minnesota.

ARE GROWING WEARY.

Pressure Brought to Bear on the Credential Committee.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The sentiment this morning in both Harrison and Blaine ranks is decidedly in favor of getting down to the nominations with as little delay as possible.

The fact is that a good many delegates, and visitors as well, who came here several days earlier than is customary, in advance of the convention, are beginning to get very tired of the eternal rush and crush and brass band, drum corps, whooping, and howling attachments of the contest, and they do not relish the idea that the proceedings may be protracted over Sunday.

Hence strong hints have been given to some of the Blaine majority of the committee on credentials that it might not be policy to test too strongly the temper of the Harrison end of the convention by dropping out of the remaining contests solely in the interest of the Blaine managers who claim that every day's delay improves the chances of their candidate.

Although the credentials committee did not take a recess until 2 o'clock this morning, its members were in session again by 9 and it was given out that in all probability a report would be made to the convention at 11 o'clock and further time asked for.

Senator Quay is averse to the committee dropping its business over another day and says it ought to hurry through its labors in time to make a report before the closing of an afternoon session.

A night session could then be held for the presentation of the candidates and bright and early to-morrow morning the balloting could be commenced in earnest.

THE REED BOOM.

Fairchild is Doing all He Can to Help It Along.

Minneapolis, June 9.—Mr. Fairchild continues his efforts to create a sentiment for Mr. Reed, and tells his colleagues that he believes that if Massachusetts went for Reed as a unite, it could nominate him, and that it would reflect great glory on the state if it would go for the winning candidate from the very first ballot.

Mr. Fairchild's efforts met the opposition of several members of the Massachusetts delegation, who are in favor of McKinley, and think that he is the one man on whom the delegation should unite.

This delegation is one that has never been polled, and is much in doubt, and which, therefore, offers a field for missionary work in behalf of dark horses on whom to concentrate the entire strength of the state.

Major McKinley's name is more often mentioned than that of any other person as a third candidate on whom the party should unite, and thus avoid engendering any bitterness growing out of the victory for either of the two great rivals.

A Blaine man acknowledged that several members of the Ohio delegation had been lost to Blaine, for the time at least, and won over to McKinley. He said, however, that in his opinion, the Harrison men had lost several votes in the same way, and that, therefore, the loss was neutralized. The talk of third candidates, and especially the growing prominence of the governor of Ohio, as in every respect an available man and fit candidate for a compromise, is alarming the most earnest and avowed supporters of each of the two leaders.

A report was in circulation that New Hampshire, Vermont and Connecticut were in a combine to go solidly for Major McKinley. He has some delegates in each of these states who are inclined to vote for him, but nothing of a definite nature has occurred in the direction named. It seems reasonably certain that, though not put in nomination, McKinley will nevertheless receive some votes from the start.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

How the Affairs of the Convention Will Come up.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The order of business is as follows:

1—Report of the committee on credentials.

2—Report of the committee on permanent organization.

3—Report of the committee on resolutions.

4—Naming of members of national committee.

5—Presentation of candidates for president.

6—Balloting.

7—Presentation of candidates for vice-president.

8—Balloting.

CALLED IN CONFERENCE.

The Big Leaders Putting Their Heads Together.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The latest report from Indiana headquarters is as follows:

"We have held our lines unbroken, notwithstanding the terrific assaults made upon them to-day. Our returns show that we have 521 votes for Harrison. This does not include any contested seats. Hitherto we have excluded all contested seats, and have not counted for us any delegate of whose position there was the slightest doubt.

"We have adhered to that rule with tenacity, and have scrutinized with exceeding care all claims concerning each individual candidate. During the day all species of claims have been made by the opposition regarding various delegates and certain delegations, but upon investigation they were found to be incorrect.

"The result of the day's work leaves us without the loss of a vote, and confirms the accuracy of the work done prior to this day. We are ready at any moment to meet our opponents in a nominating ballot, but they, fearing the results, are making desperate efforts to postpone it. They hope by delay to accomplish, in some way, what they cannot accomplish by speedy action.

"They have been mistaken in the belief that to-day would weaken us. The characteristics of our candidate are such as appeal strongly to the conservative element of our party, which desires a cautious, but strong and honest administration of public affairs."

WHY THIS DENIAL?

James G. Blaine III. Seems to be Causing Much Trouble.

New York, June 9.—The World publishes the following:

"Boston, Wednesday evening, June 8, 1892. To the editor of the World: Will you please state in your columns that it is utterly false that I or any one for me, or in my name, ever paid or offered to pay Mary Nevins Blaine, or any one for her, one cent or any other sum for any letters she holds. I have never heard of the subject, directly or indirectly, except in the newspapers. Respectfully,

"JAMES G. BLAINE."

RAZOR IN HIS BOOT.

Foraker Not to be Caught Napping by Promises.

Minneapolis, June 9.—It is war to the knife in the Ohio delegation. The Foraker men are standing out against the seductive proposals of the McKinley men for support, and if the time ever comes about that the Ohio delegation must swing in line for the governor, five or six at least will refuse to lay down their tomahawks.

An emissary was sent to Foraker by the friends of McKinley to try to convince them that the governor's nomination would be as advantageous to him as that of Sherman.

It was pointed out that should McKinley be elected president Sherman would undoubtedly be made secretary of the treasury, and Foraker's ambitions would have an opportunity in the United States senate.

Ex-Governor Foraker, however, did not bite at this rather visionary bait, and McKinley's agent returned to the governor's room disconsolate.

CREDENTIAL COMMITTEE.

It is Still Grinding Away on the Contested Seats.

Minneapolis, June 9.—Chairman Coggswell said to the United Press:

"We are going to resume consideration of the remaining contests. If the convention will let us alone we may be able to get through late this afternoon or at any rate in time for a night session."

The committee on credentials reassembled and took up the district contests from Louisiana, of which there are four. Opinions differ as to the likelihood of a report going into the convention to-day, but the majority of the views expressed are to the effect that a conclusion to the committee's labors may be expected early this afternoon.

Considerable indignation is expressed by the members of the Louisiana delegation who were turned down last night, at what they consider the fatuity of some of their friends on the committee, through which, they claim, their case was given away.

After the presentation of the argument for the contestants, by ex-Gov. Warmoth, which is said to have been unusually effective, Mr. Campbell, of Illinois, said the members from Georgia and Utah, who had previously acted with the Blaine side, were ready then to vote for seating the quartet of contestants.

But after some discussion by the delegates, one of the Harrison men moved that ex-Gov. Kellogg be excluded and the remaining three contestants be seated.

The intimation was made that the claim of the contestants was not entirely satisfactory to even the Harrison delegates.

This, of course, the defeated delegates say, weakened the case before the committee, and they were rejected by a majority of three votes.

There were two members of the committee absent when the vote was taken, and both these are claimed by the Harrison men. If that be the case, then the committee is still as likely to vote one way as the other.

STIFFENING THEIR BACKS.

Chauncey Takes a Turn at the Iowa Delegation.

Minneapolis, June 9.—The Iowa delegation held a meeting with closed doors a short time before the assembling of the convention this morning.

Several New York delegates who favor the nomination of Harrison were present and a speech was made by Chauncey M. Depew, who was one of the number.

The effort was in the direction of stiffening the backs of the Iowa delegates, who are favorably disposed towards Harrison.

After the meeting Cady Chase, of the Iowa delegation, said that while no action was taken this morning, owing to the presence of the New Yorkers, the Iowa delegates are considering the possibility of securing the nomination for Senator Allison.

The Michigan delegation held a meeting immediately after adjournment in one of the committee rooms adjoining the convention hall. At its close Col. Duffield, who is to present Gen. Alger's name, stated that the object of the conference was to see whether there was any break in the delegation.

"As a result of this meeting," he said, "I can state positively that some of our delegates who have been suspected of an intention not to vote for Gen. Alger will vote for him as long as there is a possibility of his nomination. He will receive the full vote of Michigan on the first ballot."

Senator Stockbridge does not take the same view of the matter. He admits that at least five of the delegates will vote for Harrison.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Proceedings of the Conference in Session in Mt. Vernon.

Mt. Vernon, O., June 9.—The attendance at the sessions of the fourth annual conference of the Epworth league, fifth general conference, was very large, nearly 500 visitors from abroad being registered.

Names of officers for the various conferences were reported, the following being the president and secretary of each: North Ohio—President, W. C. Dawson, of Wooster; secretary, Miss Ollie Young, of Gambier. Central Ohio—President, W. E. Spounster, of Fostoria; secretary, A. B. Hood, of Toledo. Eastern Ohio—President, Dr. Simons, of Salem; secretary, Miss Bertha R. Barnes, of Cleveland. Ohio—President, Rev. B. A. Stubbs, of Zanesville; secretary, George W. Bates, of Johnstown. Cincinnati—President, Rev. H. D. Ketchum, of Wilmington; secretary, Rev. A. C. Terrell, of Springfield. Kentucky—President, Rev. G. R. Froger, of Dayton, Ky.; secretary, Miss Minnie Hardy, of Covington.

Springfield was selected for the annual meeting in 1893, and the by-laws were so amended as to give the cabinet the privilege of fixing the date at any time in June. Officers of the convention were selected as follows: President, R. R. Bane, of Columbus; vice-presidents, first, G. L. Doty, of Cleveland; second, Miss Cora A. Miner, of Columbus; third, Rev. C. B. Holding, of Toledo; fourth, L. F. Limbert, of Greenville; secretary, C. E. Cornell, of Cleveland; treasurer, Rev. B. J. Miles, of Sycamore; member of board of control, B. E. Hellman, of Cleveland.

A resolution was adopted denouncing Associated Press reports regarding the attitude of Methodist young people toward amusements, and declaring that the league is satisfied with the teachings of the church on that subject as laid down in the discipline. A resolution was also adopted favoring the closing of the world's fair on Sunday and prohibiting the sale of liquors on the grounds.

THREE HOUSES ENTERED

In the City by Burglars Last Night.

Mr. Hahn's Ashland Avenue; Mr. Walcutter, Sumner Street, and 254 Erie Street—Arrests Made.

Ashland avenue, between Batavia and Collingwood, was the scene last evening of an exciting little drama, which goes to prove that long experience in street railway war does not, in all cases, especially equip one with courage.

At about 8:30 p. m. Miss Crim, daughter of Mrs. R. W. Smith, was seated on the front veranda, when a small, slightly built young man came out the opposite side of the street, whistling a merry tune. He wore light trousers, and a dark cutaway jacket. When he reached Mrs. Chesbrough's residence he paused, still whistling, then crossed the street, and ascended the steps of Mr. J. W. Hahn's residence, and rang the door-bell twice. The house was dark, and receiving no response he walked on out to the residence of Mr. W. H. A. Read, stood for a moment or two looking in toward the house, then returned to Mr. Hahn's, and with a "jimmy" pried open a front window, entered the house and closed the window after him. All this was clearly seen by Miss Crim at a distance of perhaps fifty feet. She ran immediately to Mr. Read's, where she found the doughty city solicitor being held down by Hon. David Robison, jr., and one of his sons. She told them what she had seen, but they insisted that she had seen nothing of the kind—that she was only "nervous." To convince her of this, the three men calmly went out and viewed the Hahn residence from a safe distance, and seeing no burglar, assured her that none was there. Finally, to oblige her, Mr. Read turned in a police alarm. By this time nearly a half hour had elapsed. Mr. David Robison and his son Will stood on the front porch of the Hahn residence, and Mr. Read in front of the house under an elm tree, when the door opened and revealed the young man in the light trousers and cutaway. He lighted two matches, one after another, to examine the intricacies of the front door latch, then stepped outside, closed the door after him, deliberately raised an umbrella, as it was raining hard, and walked off.

The three men who had been within arm's length of him, heaved three sighs of relief and cautiously stole after.

A block further down the street they spied a policeman, to whom they now called to arrest the thief, who instantly jumped the fence surrounding a vacant lot belonging to Mrs. S. B. Wood, and made good his escape, although the policeman fired two shots after him.

Ashland avenue residents are trying to ascertain whether courage is an attribute that is affected by long continued rain. The burglar got away with silver spoons, money and diamonds amounting in value to $200.

Burglars entered the place of George Walcutter, on Sumner street, between Jarvis street and Segur avenue, last night and touched the cash drawers in the grocery and saloon. Two young fellows by the names of Burns and De Lee, residing in the Fifth ward, were arrested by Nichter and Hall this morning, as it is thought they did the job.

The house, 254 Erie street, was also entered and ransacked by burglars last night.

MAN AND BABOON FIGHT.

The Desperate Struggle Which an African Traveler Had With a Monkey.

The Cape of Good Hope correspondent of the Pall Mall Budget describes a deadly fight that recently took place on the Vogel River mountains, in the district of Somerset East, between Nicholas Hurter and an immense baboon. Mr. Hurter was out with his gun, when his dogs engaged with a number of baboons that were screaming on the top of the rocky precipice overhanging his homestead. Soon all the dogs but one were disabled and the latter was engaged in a life-and-death struggle with an animal that Mr. Hurter had wounded in the shoulder. Dog and baboon were at the very edge of the precipice. Mr. Hurter had not a single cartridge left, so he picked up two large stones, and was in the act of hurling one at the baboon when, unexpectedly, a tremendous male baboon—the largest he had ever seen in his life—attacked him.

Mr. Hurter had just time to throw the stone in his upraised hand when the fierce monster was upon him. He seized Mr. Hurter by the leg and bit him with such violence that he thought every bone in his limb was broken. The animal then seized him by the chest, placing his powerful arms around the farmer, and tried for his throat. Mr. Hurter, a man above 60 years of age, was completely mastered. He, however, seized his antagonist by the throat, but with every move the baboon dragged him nearer the edge of the precipice over which the wounded baboon and dog had just rolled.

Mr. Hurter was at his wits' ends when he suddenly remembered he had a penknife in his pocket. If he could only get it out he might ward off the fierce brute by stabbing him in the face. Mr. Hurter gradually got out the knife and put it in his mouth, the baboon all the while tearing the man's face with its hands. Mr. Hurter was fast becoming exhausted, but the baboon seemed as fresh as at first. With his left hand the farmer managed to open the knife, and stabbed and prodded his assailant, but with little result, the blood drawn seeming to make the baboon still more fierce. By this time Mr. Hurter, severely wounded and quite exhausted, had scarcely a vestige of clothing left. The encounter had lasted an hour and a half—as well as Mr. Hurter could guess—and he was wondering how it would all end. He thought of letting go his grip of the monster and taking his chance. At this moment, fortunately for the man's life, one of the dogs that had been wounded had sufficiently recovered to attack the baboon in the rear and the brute, releasing his hold of the farmer, turned its attention to the dog, but after a short rough-and-tumble fight it walked off along the edge of the precipice, frequently looking round as if uncertain whether it should recommence the combat.

Mr. Joseph G. Fraser Married to Miss Catharine Hilsenbeck.

Joseph G. Fraser, a well-known young man of this city, who has been for years in the employ of the Blade Printing and Paper company, was married last night, at the residence of Rev. Wm. Koehler, to Miss Catharine Hilsenbeck. The young couple are well and favorably known in this city, and a host of friends unite in wishing them a long and peaceful voyage on the matrimonial sea. Mr. and Mrs. Fraser will commence keeping house at once.

AN OLD RESIDENT DIES.

Carpenters' Union Will Attend the Funeral in a Body.

John H. Gerwin, an old resident of this city, died at his residence, 819 Walnut street, yesterday, and the funeral services will be held at the Lutheran church on Erie street, on Sunday next. He was a carpenter by trade and worked for the Western Manufacturing company, was an old and valued member of the Carpenters' union and the carpenters at their meeting decided to attend the funeral in a body. The sympathy of many friends is extended to the bereaved family.

LABOR NOTES.

The Machinists Will Give an Excursion.

International Machinists' union, No. 11, held their weekly meeting at Turley's hall last night, and initiated two new members. The matter of the members refusing to work with ex-members was discussed, and it is probable that some such action will be taken, as it is thought such a course would have a tendency to increase the membership and bring delinquent members to time. The union will give an excursion on July 28, if that date will suit the unions at Cleveland, Dayton, Fremont and other cities with whom they desire to unite. Put-in-Bay will be the place of meeting.

The longshoremen held a meeting last night.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES,

In Which An Accident Insurance Company Comes In for a Share.

James A. Cake brought suit in common pleas court to-day against the firm of Connolly Bros. and the American Casualty Insurance and Security company, for $20,000 damages for personal injury.

The plaintiff sets up in his petition that he was in the employ of the defendants, Connolly Bros., and on May 2, 1892, claims that he was crippled for life by reason of the carelessness of his employers.

The petition makes the American Casualty company party to the suit, on account of its liability to indemnify Connolly Bros. for any loss sustained by injury to its employes, who also paid regularly for the insurance.

"Relation of Pastor and Look-out Committee," Rev. O. D. Fisher; "Duty of the Look-out Committee to the Society," Miss Marie Furst; "Duty of Members to Look-out Committee," Miss Ella Wagoner; "The Look-out Committee's Work Outside of the Society Membership," Mr. C. S. Adams, after which an interesting discussion took place, participated in by the majority of those present.

A BIG VERDICT.

A Jury in a Damage Suit in Common Pleas Court Allow $2,500.

A verdict was returned for the plaintiff in common pleas court to-day in the case of Daniel Gosline against the Toledo Electric Light company, assessing the damages at $2,500.

This case was filed August 8, and was disposed of in Judge Lemmon's court room.

The plaintiff set up in his petition that the company compelled him to do extra hazardous duty among certain live wires to connect a circuit. He was badly injured by a severe shock received and alleged that the company was responsible by reason of carelessness in detailing him to this task, and not warning him of the danger entailed.

KLINE-WEBSTER.

Wedded Last Night Under the Most Favorable Auspices.

Last night at 7 o'clock occurred the marriage of Miss Nettie, daughter of Yardmaster Kline, of the Pennsylvania yards, and Mr. Carroll J. Webster. The event took place at the residence of the bride's parents, on lower Summit street, which was made exceedingly beautiful with floral decorations, and was witnessed by a small company of the intimate friends of the couple. Promptly at the hour named the bride and groom appeared unattended in the parlors, while Miss Flora Van Gorder played the Lohengrin wedding march. They were met by Rev. Dr. Fish and Rev. J. H. Bethards, and the nuptial knot, with ring, was tied in the most approved manner, the doctor sealing the same with a kiss.

The bride, a charming young lady always, was attired in a neat pearl gray costume, with pearl trimmings, and carried white roses.

Following the ceremony congratulations were extended and then the elegant feast was spread. At 9 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Webster left over the Michigan Central for a wedding trip, and on their return will take up their residence for the present at the Webster home, corner of Huron and Bush streets. The popularity of the young couple was attested in the large number of beautiful presents received from friends. Among the guests were the following: Mrs. Dr. Rainey and the Misses Emma and Mame Floyd, of Logan; Mrs. Hiss, Mr. Charles Kline and Miss Lulu Sackman, of Columbus, and Dr. and Mrs. Case, of Grand Blanc, Michigan. Best wishes of a large circle of friends will be with Mr. and Mrs. Webster for a prosperous and happy journey through life.

The Policemen and Firemen Will Cross Bats

Saturday Afternoon at the Ball Grounds—Captains Hall and Fraser Get Their Men in Line.

It will be a hot game between the policemen and firemen at the ball grounds Saturday afternoon. Detective Hall has been hustling things, and has a dandy set of men who will hold up the banner for the honor of the police department, and Capt. Fraser, of the fire department's nine, has some equally strong players in his combination. It will be nip and tuck. The firemen have a little advantage, as they have been holding rehearsals back of No. 3 engine house every night. The police don't care for that, however, as they say the laddies will need all the practice they can get.

The clubs will be made up as follows:

Police.	Position.	Firemen.
Carl	catcher	Mohr
Hall	pitcher	Larkin
Schick	short-stop	Daly
Matteson	first base	Wall
Daly	second base	Fraser
Wegner	third base	Ebner

THE SLOT IDEA REVERSED.

All You Need Do is to Turn a Crank and a Coin Will Come Out.

A brilliant idea for dealing with the unemployed tramp has occurred to a correspondent of Truth. It is an adaptation of the penny-in-the-slot principle to the problem of labor tests for casuals, but instead of putting a penny in, the tramp will turn a handle to get a penny out.

The scheme includes a method of utilizing the power thus expended, and it is suggested that in these days of electrical science it will be no very difficult problem to enable the rate-payer in this way to get much better value for his money than he does from stone-breaking and oakum-picking.

No preliminary formalities, it is observed, would be required; no testimonials would be asked for; no notice required when leaving, and no visible foreman would ever be present to grumble or to be grumbled at.

Moreover, the love of nature and travel characteristic of the tramp would not be interfered with, because as soon as he tired of one machine he could go on to the next at his own sweet will.

Our contemporary is so fascinated with the notion, that he asks why, if this plan were adopted, everybody would not join the "unemployed." With bread and chesse and board and lodging laid on, so to speak, at every street corner, why should any of us trouble to do more than turn the necessary handle?

INTERESTING QUESTION.

When Did Ladies Begin to Ride Sideways on Horseback?

In a book entitled "Remains Concerning Bristain," published in 1614, it is stated that Queen Anne, wife of Richard II., first taught English women to ride on side-saddles, when heretofore they rode astride. As late as 1772 Queen Mariana Victoria of Portugal always rode astride.

There has been some discussion as to whether the ancient practice should not be revived, and the side-saddle abandoned. In May, 1890, a lady, wife of an English baronet, appeared in Rotten row attended by her groom and mounted cross-legged.

Her riding habit was not only somewhat longer than the new fashion enjoins, but was longer than the old one as well, and was simply a very voluminous divided skirt.

The fashion, however, does not appear yet to make much way, although it is known that it is not so uncommon for ladies to ride cross-saddle as might be supposed. A curious side-saddle is used by women in Iceland.

It has a seat with a back like a common chair, and has, instead of a stirrup, a little shelf on which both the feet can rest.—F. Lund in Rider and Driver.

CURE FOR WORN-OUT FACES.

No one knows the care of a house in all its departments as one who has tried it for years. No one can know the weariness of selecting, planning and knowing just what will be served (and better than any one else, too, just how it will be served) for the 1,095 meals which are needed to give one's family a year's growth, except one who has planned that number for several years.

Over and over again one hears, "She is worn out; she has kept house for 15 years, and she is the best housekeeper I know."

All through the history of humanity a need calls forth a supply. Each condition of suffering or demand has through all ages brought forth its cure, its reply.

Sometimes we do not see the cure as quickly as we might, but it is always waiting, always ready when our need is great enough to drive us to it.

What, then, is the response here to the hundreds of drawn, tired faces; the hundreds of strained, tired voices; the hundreds of broken down women who, instead of ripening into a vigorous old age, wither and droop into different stages of incapacity and suffering?

The answer is here:

Learn bodily economy.

Spare your forces as you spare your money.

Watch your bank account of muscular and nervous strength.—Exchange.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

The Wool Bulletin

The report on the wool industry dated, in bulletin, March of this year, is chiefly remarkable for its promises as to what will appear in later publications, bringing statistics up to 1890. And these data "are not final, but preliminary and subject to revision." It is shown that a great reduction has taken place in the market value of products of the woolen industry, compensated, in part, by increase in quantity. In hosiery and knit goods, the greatest increase of product is noted, owing chiefly to improved machinery. This was the condition when the McKinley tariff law increased the duty on these goods, in answer to the demand of those interested, because other wool products were getting more bounty from the government. On knit goods, the increase in duty was attended with perceptible increase in price, as every buyer will testify. The use of "adulterants" in wool goods has increased in the decade from 6,335,169 pounds to 16,805,764 pounds. The capital invested in the manufacture of shoddy has increased from one million to four millions dollars.

The season of 1879-1880 was the most prosperous year the wool industry has ever known in this country. Of '89-'90 was one of the dullest. In the state of Connecticut the value of wool products in 1890 was less by considerable over four millions dollars than in 1880. The census enumerator believes the figures to be correct "because careful comparison has been made with returns received at the state bureau of statistics." Still the special agent expresses the belief that the value of the products of this state was exaggerated ten years ago.

All of which gives one no great confidence in the figures or conclusions, and only confirms the belief that governmental interference with the business of firms and individuals engaged in the woolen industry, from the sheep's back to the merchant's counter, works only mischief, and that continually. The flockmaster is dissatisfied; his promised benefits do not materialize. The consumer is cheated; he pays enhanced price and gets a bigger share of shoddy at that; there has been no advance in wages paid to labor, and withal the manufacturer is plagued with conditions now and then that even monopoly cannot control. Small excuse for a law which shows such results and to maintain which is so great a burden and expense to the people. We have unlimited acres, diversity of climate, advantage in machinery, the world's labor market to choose from, now give us free wool. The tariff has proven a conspicuous failure, and to increase it was an act of the rankest injustice. The wool bulletins continually apologize for conditions, but they cannot obscure facts.

"Without Shame or Humiliation."

In his eloquent address at Minneapolis, Gov. McKinley proudly said: "The republican party can look backward without shame or humiliation." Does he remember, for a moment, what is compassed in that backward look?—More scandals of administration than were ever before crowded into the same limit of time; more broken pledges, from the promise of "40 acres and a mule" to Sambo down to the Harrison civil service falsity, than were ever before recorded against any party; more dishonest deals with firms and corporations, more payment of individual obligations with official patronage than the Bee's columns could recapitulate in months; princes and paupers, the direct result of republican party legislation, multiplying all the way along its trail; the people's treasure scattered and the people's domain of broad acres given away by the millions; the ballot theft of '76 that ought to bring the hot flame of humiliation to the cheek of even a republican ghost whose disembodiment post-dates that black year. The "look backward" takes in an organized revolt of wealth producers against its caste-breeding creeds and tenets. These are a few of the things the boastful party can "look back upon without shame or humiliation."

To-day it can look down upon the chief magistrate of the nation, hustling like a ward politician for renomination to the office he was never for a moment large enough to fill; and a secretary of state stepping down from his high position to enter the arena of conflict, with a cockade in his hat and a knife in his boot. It can look down upon a handful of Negroes but lately come into possession of the sacred gift of the franchise, waiting for the biggest bribe before they decide to whom shall be given the coveted honor. Verily, this party of which Ohio's governor makes boast, has a brazen cheek, if his characterization of it be true.

Some Significant Figures.

The Toronto Empire quotes with great gusto, from an American newspaper, the "Workman and Farmer," printed where, deponent sayeth not, what it calls "some pictures of life in the great republic." It notes that the government has given to Pacific railway corporations an area of land equal to that of the original thirteen states. The Empire proceeds, from official data, to compute the railway debts of the United States and puts the amount at $4,000,000,000. It quotes from the Irish World, the names and localities of twenty-seven alien landlords and corporations whose holdings aggregate 20,700,000 acres. This added with the 215,000,000 acres given to western railroad corporations makes the sum of 230,700,000 acres of land of the use of which the actual settler and homemaker, the American workingman, is denied. Add to this sum the immense tracts owned by our own syndicates and lumber barons, and put down with it the fact, that, in ten years, ending 1880, farms from 20 to 50 acres decreased 8 per cent.; from 50 to 100 acres increased 37 per cent., and over 1,000 acres, the increase was 668 per cent. Then consider, the movement in this direction during the ten years not yet reported and up to date, and ask, with our neighbor, if landlordism doesn't threaten this country as surely as it ever gripped the old world monarchies? It is only a question of time, postponed by the area of our magnificent domain, if there is no turn in the tide of affairs. The Empire reprints these figures to scare annexationists. We reprint them to scare ourselves, and ask if they can be disproven.

The state of Nebraska is smiling over big crop prospects. Good enough. The mortgage business of Nebraska for ten years preceding 1890 amounted to $274,368,358, and 48.44 per cent. of that remained unpaid up to date. Kansas stands first on the list with a per capita indebtedness of $170; Nebraska second—$126; Iowa third—$104; Illinois fourth with $100. The increase of debt in Nebraska in 1889 over that of 1880 was 381.01 per cent. The western agriculturist isn't getting on very well for a "protected" industrialist.

The Detroit Tribune doesn't mince matters. It opposes the admission of Arizona and New Mexico by saying:

"If admitted to the union they would probably send to congress two democrat representatives and four democrat senators, thus overturning the republican majority in the senate."

If Arizona could offset the pocket borough, with its two silver senators, admitted by republicans, there would be a fine sense of justice in bidding her welcome, if for no other cause. Utah, Arizona and New Mexico have the qualifications for statehood, the same that opened the doors for other states recently admitted. Their probable political complexion is all that bars their entrance and "everybody knows it."

It is said Mr. Carnegie is aiding the English liberal party with campaign funds. Certainly Mr. Carnegie can scatter his money abroad in the old world as he likes while the taxpayers of this country are pouring it into the coffers of his infant iron monopoly establishment. If there is any call for retrenchment he can scale down the wages of the men who toil in his mills and mines. Mr. Carnegie ought to be able to compete with princes and potentates.

Western papers which join the hue and cry of narrow-minded and selfish ones in the east against appropriations for improvement of western water ways, deserve to lose friends and patronage, as they surely will. Eastern journals do not divide on party lines when it comes to a question of local justice or advantage. It is only the fool partisan papers in this neck of the woods that delight in such antics.

It is still an unexplained mystery—how the manufacturers of the United States, who must be protected by a heavy duty to keep them up to high profit mark, can yet go into the markets of the world and compete with free trade factories and pauper labor. The only light on the subject is let in by the price schedules for the home and foreign markets. The home buyer pays a premium so the manufacturer can sell to the foreign buyer at a discount.

All labor organizations want the world's fair open Sundays. And it is on the supposition that these people don't know what they want, or what is good for them, that the strict Sabbatarians oppose it. If there came, coupled with every petition for closing, a petition for a holiday every week, for working men and women, it would not appear quite so selfish.

Pennsylvania has more millionaires, two to one according to population, than any other state in the union. There are 1,500 people in the devastated oil regions in need of assistance. Now let the bounty fed open their purses and, according to the advice of their iron king, "become the almoners of the poor." It will be even more commendable than building blocks of stone with monumental inscriptions.

Manager John C. New, over his signature in the New York World, accuses the Blaine contingency of capturing some of the colored delegates. He says "I don't say how it was done." Go in, Sambo, now's your time; emulate the white brother of your party. Make hay while the sun shines; the sun of Minneapolis will set next November.

For the first time since Congressman McKinley was made famous by his infamous law, he coupled "protection" and "reciprocity" in his address at Minneapolis. But the exigencies of the situation are very great, and the Governor's perspective is quite overshadowed, for the time being, by his prospective.

The powerful Union League club of New York, calls Mr. Warner Miller down and asks him to remember that he is expected to represent his constituency, and that "Mr. Blaine, of Maine, cannot carry the state of New York." Mr. Miller remembers that cold place in the grass outside of the breastworks and needs watching.

The Omaha Bee deprecates the fact that their neighbor's crops are drowned out, but cannot help reminding fortunate Nebraskans who have escaped, that the consequent shortage will send prices up. Quite an admission for a republican paper. They usually credit a rise in agricultural products to the McKinley law.

The Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, in his address to the Minneapolis convention, claimed everything worth recording for the republican party, except the creation of the world and the inspiration of the Bible. He hadn't time to produce evidence on these points.

The National Teachers' convention, which will assemble in Atlanta, Ga., next month, will not make so big a stir as the bodies at Minneapolis and Chicago. But it means as much for the country.

If Emin Pasha is dead here's a tear of regret. He was a plucky and fearless adventurer, who didn't care to have any search party organized for him when he was pursuing his scientific investigations.

First blood for Blaine.

Sixty-four finely-laundried anti-prohibitionists wait upon customers at the bar at the delegates' headquarters in Minneapolis, and they are earning double pay. There's no excuse like there is in Chicago; Minneapolis has a bounteous supply of crystal clear aqua pura.

ATTACKED BY ROBBERS.

Wapakoneta, O., June 9.—(Special)—Jacob Young, a horse trader, was enticed into a stable at the horse fair. When he was inside he was attacked by five fellows and his pockets picked of all the money he had with him. He grabbed a buggy whip and took the butt end and struck one of the assailants, making a very ugly scalp wound. The robbers fled.

MARYLAND.

Baltimore, Md., June 9.—The democratic state convention sent an uninstructed delegation to Chicago.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL

Meeting of the Board of Managers.

Of the Protestant Orphans' Home—Reports of the Treasurer and Secretary and an Entertainment by the Children.

The board of managers of the Protestant Orphans' home held their annual meeting Wednesday afternoon, Dr. W. W. Williams in the chair.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Barton Smith, the matron of the home, Mrs. S. P. Bangs, read the following interesting report of the work of the year:

This closes the twenty-fifth year of the home's existence. The past year we have cared for 19 new children in addition to theose we had, making a family of 37, an average of 20 girls and 17 boys.

Five mothers are here who found this a refuge with their little ones, as it is next to impossible for a woman to get a place to work and have her children with her. The children of school age have the advantage of public schools. The younger ones have excellent kindergarten training. Both girls and boys help with the work before and after school, each one having certain duties for a month. At the end of that time they are generally ready for a change, and often before if their work does not suit them. They are especially fond of any work that keeps them up after the bed bell rings. After the change is made it is sometimes quite amusing to overhear them talking it over. One says: "I am on the beds; are you in the kitchen?" A boy speaks up proudly, "I'm on the barn," which is the height of their ambition. They usually go cheerfully to their tasks, but sometimes in their eagerness for play, forget; then sitting in the nursery with nothing to do but think when the rest are at play usually has a good effect.

The girls learn to sew under the direction of the oldest girl. They hem towels, piece quilts, make holders, and some of them have made aprons for themselves. But the bulk of the sewing is done by the different church sewing societies, for which we cannot be too grateful. A great many partly worn garments are sent in by the ladies of the board and their friends, which with a little repairing make very stylish Sunday clothes for our children, and are donned with a great deal of pleasure. Several of the parents who board children here clothe them, and it is fully appreciated that they have their "very own," as they express it.

The boys scrub, weed the garden (quite as often pulling up the plants as weeds) and help in the laundry and at the barn. The health of the family has been unusually good this last year. We have had no epidemic to keep all the children out of school. Three of the younger ones had whooping cough, who were not here when the others had it. Our physicians, Drs. Chapman and Smith, have been very kind, responding promptly to our calls. The children as a rule get along very pleasantly together for so large a family; occasionally they quarrel, as all children do, but they have the forgiving spirit, that is so beautiful in childhood, and soon forget their differences. The daily routine has had some pleasant variations. In August several members of two circles of the King's Daughters with their leaders, Mrs. Bolles and Mrs. John Walbridge, came out and treated the children with a very nice lunch, eaten picnic fashion on the lawn, and made glad their hearts with jumping-ropes for the girls and balls for the boys. Our children entertained them by singing and repeating the Mother Goose entertainment given last annual meeting. For the first time in the history of the "home" the house was locked from morning until night when all of the family went to Bellevue park, leaving only the cats in possession. Through the kindness of Mr. Lang, of the Consolidated, we had a special train to and from the park. The children had a delightful time playing and roaming around. They did full justice to the excellent lunch prepared for them. All holidays are celebrated here with a great deal of enthusiasm. The older ones are up with the lark on Fourth of July, firing off their crackers, and they would be glad to keep it up all day if the supply only lasted. Christmas we always have a tree loaded with presents for each one—thanks to our many friends. We have short exercises consisting of singing and recitations by the children. These holidays are eagerly anticipated and are a great delight to our little ones, so many of whom have had little brightness in their lives. We always explain the origin of the holidays, and it takes a great deal of repetition. In the kindergarten on Washington's birthday, after Miss Hays had been explaining about Washington, she asked "what they called the one chosen for a leader." A little brown-eyed miss spoke up: "I know, 'the king of beasts.'" A little boy who came here a baby and has graduated from the kindergarten into the public schools, feels as if he had a large interest in the "Home," and might feel that the deed of sale was not perfect without his signature. I overheard him say as the buggy passed by: "That's my buggy; I just let the man keep it in his barn." Last winter a mother left here on account of ill-health, taking her little boy over three years old, who came here when he was a wee baby of three months. He knew nothing of any other home. Since he has been away his mother writes he often asks her to go back to the old home and bring all of his things. We often have letters from children or their adopted parents that are very gratifying. Though they like their new home they do not forget the old one. The following is from one of our boys who had been here seven years. He says: "I am glad to hear that you are asking about me. So I will tell you all about myself so far as I can. I am well and growing fast, learning the machinist's trade as fast as I can, going out in the country and working on engines and boilers. I like it where I am very much. How are all the folks How are the boys I have been thinking about them for a long time. Do they say anything about me? How are the horse and the cows? Who works at the barn? That is all I can think of, so good-by. Yours truly, Frank."

We have recently had a visit from a boy who had been here six years, when he was sent to the Xenia home, where he remained five years, having just been discharged, as he was 16. He came out the first opportunity he had and seemed to enjoy going through the home and talking over old times with one of the help who was here when he was. He is now a printer in one of the newspaper offices of the city. We have been very kindly remembered in many ways by people of our city and the surrounding country. The farmers on whom we call once a year for vegetables respond very graciously; also the children of the public schools, who have furnished us with a great many baskets of potatoes. Our friend, Mr. George Tait, has been very kind to us. Since Thanksgiving hardly a week has passed that he has not given us two large baskets of nice fresh bread, and sometimes rolls and fried cakes, often twice a week, all of which is very acceptable to our large family. He is one who "scattereth, yet increaseth." This year two of the older members of the advisory board, who have given liberally to the support of the home, were called from us. In January Mr. Calvin Bronson died, and in April Mr. Joseph Secor. The wise counsel of these old friends, who have been associated with the board so long, has been sadly missed. Many people have an impression that our home is in a very flourishing condition because of several bequests which have been left in the last two years. Judge Collins bequeathed $10,000 and Miss Mabel Crawford $2,500. Certainly $12,500 would have been a great help to us, but as yet we have received nothing from either estate. Last fall the treasury was so low that the ladies of this board pledged themselves to give a certain amount for the relief of the home, and two entertainments were given during the winter from which enough was realized to tide us over for a short time, but only for a very short time. The question had become such a serious one the advisory board was called in consultation, and the sale of a portion of the home land was decided upon. The sale took place this spring, $2,000 being paid down. This seems a comfortable sum, but after the payment of one-half for special taxes, street improvements, moving of buildings and many necessary repairs, that which is left will not go very far toward meeting the expenses of such a large family as we have. But we trust that "the good All Father who cares for us here below" will provide for the future as He has in the past.

The treasurer's report was then read by Mrs. A. E. Messenger, treasurer:

Treasurer's report for the year ending June 8, 1892:

Remarks were made by Dr. Williams, Rev. Candee and Mr. Buck. Dr. Williams said that he could hardly realize that this was the twenty-fifth anniversary. He gave a general review of the progress of the Home, the names of its institutors, some of whom have passed away, and hoped that the day would be far distant when in Toledo there should not be one spot where orphan children will be cared for by willing hands, prompted by warm hearts. Rev. Candee spoke feelingly of the good work being done, and Mr. Buck said he was glad our benevolences were run by women. It sometimes rained and the men could not get out in unpleasant weather, but the women were always on hand.

Messrs. Arthur J. Secor and H. P. Platt were elected to fill the places on the advisory board made vacant by the death of Mr. Joseph Secor and Mr. C. Bronson. The list of board of managers and advisory as it now stands is Mrs. C. R. Messenger, Mrs. H. P. Platt, Mrs. H. S. Waite, Mrs. T. C. Rowland, Mrs. W. H. H. Smith, Miss Anna C. Mott, Mrs. Rathbun Fuller, Mrs. F. B. Shoemaker, Mrs. Barton Smith, Mrs. J. H. Bowman, Mrs. J. G. Mitchell, Miss Tamela Berdan, Mrs. Arthur J. Secor, Mrs. S. R. Callaway, Miss Kate Brainerd, Mrs. W. J. Baker, Mrs. Clay Crawford, Mrs. Oliver Rogers.

Advisory board—William Baker, H. S. Walbridge, C. H. Buck, W. S. Brainerd, C. R. Messenger, W. W. Williams, C. A. King, J. J. Barker, W. H. H. Smith, J. H. Bowman, J. G. Mitchell, W. T. Carrington, Arthur J. Secor, H. T. Platt.

The election of officers for the ensuing year will be held Wednesday afternoon, June 22.

At the close of the meeting the visitors were entertained by the children with the following program: Song, "Rain;" song, "Daisies;" Village Dance, "Three Crows," March Drill, "Sunflowers," "Coming Thro the Rye," "A Mortifying Mistake," "Mother Goose." "Evening Song."

The children and attendants received an invitation from the managers of the City of Toledo to go on an excursion on June 14, which was accepted.

THE LAST AND BEST

Session of the Baptist Association.

One Million Dollars to be Raised During the Centennial Year for Missions.

The closing session of the Toledo Baptist association was the most interesting one to visitors, but to the members the reports of committees, and even the statistics were not dry, because they were encouraging to the workers and all those interested in the good being accomplished.

The address by Rev. E. R. Mears, of Findlay, on the "Beginning of Modern Missions" was a very interesting one, and gave a review of the work done and the victories achieved.

Rev. E. E. Williams spoke on "Our Share in the Centennial Movement," giving his idea of what was the duty of each one in this work, and the way in which most good could be done.

Rev. O. O. Fletcher also spoke on the "Centennial Movement," in the evening. His address was a very able one and well received.

Miss Olive Vandeburgh read an excellent paper on "Primary Work." Miss Vandeburgh has a clear, distinct voice, and her paper showed careful thought and study and a thorough knowledge of the subject.

Splendid papers were also read by Mr. Charles T. Lewis on "Benevolence in the Sunday School," and by Mr. J. J. Freeman on "How to Secure Better Teaching."

The society is much interested in the centennial movement, and intend raising $1,000,000 for missionary work during the year.

The next meeting of the association will be held at Haskins, O., on Tuesday and Wednesday, June, 1893, at which time Rev. C. A. Gardner, of Toledo, will deliver the opening address.

A NEW ENTERPRISE

To Remove from Jackson to Toledo at Once.

The Hewitt Sulky Cart Company Lease a Building in Toledo from L. S. Baumgardner.

The Bee stated some time ago that L. S. Baumgardner had erected a fine brick building on the site at Auburndale formerly occupied by the cut and wringer works, which was destroyed by fire.

Mr. Baumgardner to-day leased the building to the J. W. Hewitt Manufacturing company of Jackson, Mich.

The company manufactures the J. W. Hewitt patent sulky road cart, and the plant will be removed from that place to this city, and will take possession of the new quarters June 15.

The company does an extensive business and will be a valuable industry to Toledo.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Mr. Watterson reminds us of a man up in a balloon. Every day he throws out a few sand bags at Grover Cleveland, unmindful of the fact that he is getting further and further away. As to the democratic presidential situation don't worry, men and brethren! This is going to be a good, healthy year for democratic nominees all around. Pardridge, the "plunger," is struggling hard to keep from going down because of the advance in wheat and corn. He has caused many another man's financial ruin by his skillful manipulations of the market. If he goes under he can reflect that he who takes the sword perishes by it.—Rochester Herald.

If the etiquette of public life allowed the revelation of what occurred at the cabinet meeting from which Mr. Blaine retired to write his resignation, the exceeding brevity of the correspondence in relation to the resignation would doubtless be explained.—Louisville Commercial.

of the republican party yesterday Mr. Fassett spoke of "the markets of the world opened by the persuasive logic of reciprocity, to the products of the American workshop, and the American farm." HOW THEY EAT MEN.

Prince Tip-o-Tip Tells the Story

And Other Interesting Things to a Bee.

The Son of the Zulu King Cetewayo Will Remain in Toledo for a Few Days.

Java Tip-O-Tip Victoria Folsse Zula Dungan Omisha called at the Bee office this morning. He is a son of King Cetowa Tetowa, who was in command of his tribe at the time the young Prince Napoleon was killed, was born in the southern part of Africa, in the year 1873, at Zula Land, 700 miles from Cape Town. His father, King Cetowa Tetowa, had forty wives, and was the father of twenty-one children, fourteen girls and four boys, who are now living, Tip-O-Tip being the youngest son.

A missionary, Sarah Sharp, was instrumental in having him come to this country. She taught him to speak the English language and told him much about the United States and the religion of civilization.

He proved an apt pupil, and his desire to see the world that had been so vividly pictured to him became so strong that he ran away, rode to Cape Town, 700 miles distant, on camel-back, and embarked for Liverpool. This was three years ago. Tip is now quite an American. He dresses in checked pants, a Prince Albert coat, and is topped off with an English traveling cap.

"I am called Tip-O-Tip," he said, "because my pa he marry Tib-O-Tib's daughter. Tib-O-Tib he a great man in Africa. I am also named Victoria because Cetewayo was taken prisoner and his life was saved by the queen."

"Tell us how the Zulus eat people, Tip."

"Well," said he, "they cut off the head and feet; then they take out the entrails and feed them to the snake they worship. A fire is built and a large number of white flint rocks that hold the heat a long time, are made red hot. The body is covered with these stones and cooked. When the cooking process is concluded they have a dance and religious exercises followed by the feast. Six men and six women can eat a person all up. They say that man's flesh is better than woman's, and white people better than black. I never ate any human flesh, because my missionary told me the devil would get hold of me if I did. I'm afraid of the devil. He bad man.

"My people also eat monkey soup, called bow-wow, rice with palm oil, banana beer and palm wine, boiled snake, hippopotamus, and lots of other queer things. Monkey tail roasted in the fire is a great dish; also monkey hips cut up fine and stewed."

The marriage ceremony according to Tip's version, is original, if nothing else. When a boy enters the world his father selects as many wives for him as he thinks he will be able to afford, but he is not married until he reaches his twenty-sixth year, when he must pay equal to from $15 to $50 apiece, according to their beauty, which depends on how fat they are. Fat women age very beautiful in their eyes. Those to be married go before the king of the tribe and lay their heads on the ground before him. A dignitary known as the Bush Devil then strikes them one or two blows on the top of the head with an immense club. If they come around all right they are declared married, but of course if the blow is fatal the marriage is off. Anyhow the Zulus are happy because death and marriage are two conditions much sought after. Death is looked upon as a matter of great rejoicing. Many Zulus do not survive the marriage ceremony, but then philosophically they think that perhaps they have escaped the greater evil.

Queen Victoria took a great liking to Tip and wanted him to remain under her care. She promised to educate him and make him a good man.

"Why don't you go home and rule?" asked a Bee.

"Because," said Tip, "I would have to conform to their religious ideas and go back to barbarism. I am going back, but it will be to teach them what is right. They will listen to me when a white person could do nothing with them. Then if they want me to rule my way, perhaps I will."

Tip is stopping at 233 Huron street and will remain in Toledo about a week. Possibly arrangements will be made to have him speak in some of the churches before he leaves. He is 19 years of age and acts just like a great big boy—happy, good-natured, full of fun and as strong as an ox. He amused himself by picking the reporters up with his teeth. He don't like high buildings, because he is afraid he will fall off. He isn't used to being so far from the ground, he says.

Tip goes back to Zululand in July to visit his people, but will return in the winter to enter the Howard university at Washington.

He has translated the hymn "Come to Jesus" in his native language as follows:

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

A Word for the Hucksters.

To the Editor: In your issue of June 8, an article entitled in the Voice of the People, in relation to the huckster ordinance, stated that there are about 400 men who have $1,000,000 invested in the grocery business. A large majority of those men run saloons in connection with their groceries and deal out death and destruction to minors and their fellowman, regardless of law or justice. Speaking of honesty the huckster will compare favorably with an equal number of grocery men. I do not wish to justify the wrong doings of any man. We have paid officials whose business it is to enforce the law. We have asked that the law might be enforced time and again. Why has it not been done? We have been called thieves and robbers; we have been made the scapegoats of dishonest grocers and farmers alike. The gentleman in the article objects to what Mr. Manchester said in his argument before the council. He did not say that grocers were thieves, but simply wanted to know why the grocerymen took such an interest in this ordinance if it was not for the purpose of crushing out a few poor men in the huckster business that they might have a complete monopoly in the necessaries of life. Mr. Editor, has it come to this that a man must be a Jay Gould or a Vanderbilt before he can do business in Toledo? Why should the hucksters of Toledo have a greater license than New York, with her millions of inhabitants, or Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, or any other city in the state?

All we ask is fair play and do not wish to be misrepresented.

JOHN S. ROWE, Huckster.

People Wiser Than They Were a Score of Years Ago.

How Mistakes of the Past are Now Avoided—Prof. Phelps of Dartmouth Gave to the World a Remedy That Makes the Blood Pure and the Nerves Strong—Why the Best Physicians Advise Its Use.

There is a great deal of talk about purifying the blood. There was a time not many years ago when people thought that the simple purifying of the blood was all that was necessary, but the world has advanced. Physicians tell us that first of all the nervous system, which is nearer life than anything else, must be preserved in order to retain health and lengthen life. This is common sense as well as science.

The remedy that physicians now prescribe to strengthen the nerves, as well as purify the blood, is Paine's celery compound, the prescription that made the fame of Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college.

Patients who are weak and weary, sleepless and despondent or dyspeptic, have been advised so often to use Paine's celery compound to ward off disease and despondency that it has come to be known everywhere, by the public as well as the medical profession and the druggists, as a specific in such cases.

At this season, when the warm weather is causing a debilitated effect, resulting in headaches, indigestion and languor, Paine's celery compound should be used. It makes people well. It gives health, happiness and long life.

THE DANCING GIRL.

She comes, the spirit of the dance!
And but for those large, eloquent eyes,
Where passion speaks in every glance,
She'd seem a wanderer from the skies.

So light that, gazing breathless there,
Lest the celestial dream should go,
You'd think the music in the air
Waved the fair vision to and fro!

Or that the melody's sweet flow
Within the radiant creature played,
And those soft wreathing arms of snow,
And white sylph feet the music made.

Now gliding slow with dreamy grace,
Her eyes beneath their lashes lost;
Now motionless with lifted face,
And small hands on her bosom crossed.

And now with flashing eyes she springs,
Her whole bright figure raised in air,
As if her soul had spread its wings,
And poised her one wild instinct there.

She spoke not, but so richly fraught
With language were her glance and smile,
That when the curtain fell, I thought
She had been talking all the while.

HARRIET LANE'S DIAMONDS

Harriett Lane's djamonds had been the pride of her soul for nearly forty years. They had been given to her by her husband to commemorate the birth of their first child. When misfortune came to them—when the plantation had to be mortgaged—her husband had refused to listen to her faltering suggestion:

"S'pose we sell the diamonds?"

"Not if I know it! Not a bit of it," he had answered stoutly. "They shall be a little nest-egg for you."

That had been forty-five years ago. The mortgage had been lifted, five sturdy sons brought to manhood, and one smart daughter to the age of 17. Then the good husband was called to a higher life and Harriet cherished her diamonds more than ever for his sake.

The one sweet daughter was making up her mind to get married. Money was not any too plentiful about the place that year, and Harriet had some difficulty in getting together the necessary articles for her dear Minnie's trousseau. Miss Minnie's affianced was a prominent business man of Baton Rouge, and her mother was determined that she should not have to blush because of "her things." So, without consulting any one, the dear soul decided to sell her diamonds.

She took a week to "turn it over in her mind." When, one morning, she announced to her family that she was "going to the city to get Min some things," she caused a most decided sensation. "I've got money enough to pay my way, and I shall stay with Mary," she said.

Mary was a schoolmate of hers who had given her a standing invitation to visit her in New Orleans.

This going to New Orleans was really a wonderful event in Harriet Lane's life. She had never been there but once—on her wedding trip.

When the steamboat came puffing up to the landing Harriet's heart almost failed her. But she clutched her black bag and drew one long breath which lasted till she had crossed the stage plank.

That night she did not sleep; she feared she would be robbed. The next afternoon she reached the city, and her friend came down to the boat to meet her. In the course of the evening she confided the object of her trip to her dear Mary. She displayed the diamonds—the ear-rings set in clusters of twelve stones; the breast-pin, cross-shaped, having twice the number, and the bracelets, each a slender golden serpent with diamond eyes. She grew eloquent—her face became younger—the little stoop in her shoulders almost disappeared.

"The first time I wore them," she said, in the dreamy way old women have when they tell what happened when they were young, "was at Abe's christening, and how the church folks did stare! Then I had them on at Sis Lou's wedding. The people looked at 'em mor'n they did at the bride!"

She sighed as she added:

"If pa was alive I wouln't be selling 'em now. But Min needs more things than the place can afford to give her!"

Then Harriett questioned eagerly the price of goods, etc. What would a good silk dress cost? Min just must have one!

"What do you think I should ask for my diamonds?" she said, after everything else had been dismissed. "Pa gave $300 for them!"

"You won't get as much," answered her friend quickly. She had looked at the stones carefully.

"Well, I'll make myself satisfied with $200," returned Harriett.

That night the mother saw Minnie in her dreams wearing a blue silk dress. The next day was spent in sightseeing. New Orleans had changed so in forty years.

The second day Mary took her guest to the stores and she had a "good look at things," finding out their prices, etc. Just as they were about to take the cars Mary suggested that her dear Harriett should stop at Griswold's and see what valuation he would put on the diamonds; of course Harriett had them with her.

The polite salesman called the proprietor of the store.

He examined them carefully.

"Where did you buy these?" he asked at length.

"Pa—that is, my husband—got them in Baton Rouge and he paid $300 for them," answered Harriett Lane, proudly.

"Then he was outrageously swindled," said Mr. Griswold.

For a moment Harriett thought he was joking. Then she grew wrathful, and snatching the jewels from him, she rushed out of the store.

"That man must be crazy, or he is a thief," she said to Mary.

"We will try the other stores," answered her friend, soothingly. But alas, everybody was of Mr. Griswold's opinion.

"Let us go home," said Mary. Poor Harriett's face was so pinched and gray-looking.

Later Mary advised her to sell the set for old gold but Harriett only shook her head. The day following she went home. Mary insisted on paying her passage and sending Minnie the blue silk dress and several other things the diamonds were to have paid for.

Harriett put her diamonds back into their case. She never told the children their secret. Often she would look at them. They glistened as brightly as ever. Perhaps she hoped that they were real after all.

When she was dying, years later, Minnie heard her mutter: "Tell Min to keep the diamonds. Tell her she must never sell 'em?"

And Minnie never did.—New Orleans Picayune.

Advice to the bashful young men who never enjoyed the ecstatic bliss of courting: Get a little gal-an-try.

More than four thousand devices for coupling have been patented, and yet thousands of bachelors and maidens go it alone.

"Are we on time, George?" asked the loquacious passenger of the conductor, who never saw him before. "No, sir," was the polite answer, "we are on wheels."

One of the candidates for justice at the recent election in Dakota announced that if he was elected he would marry couples for $1 and wait for his pay till the first child was born.

Jennie sighed and Robin squeezed her
Pretty little trembling hand;
Then, with clasping arms he seized her
Half reluctant form, and—and—
"Loose me!" but he clasped her tighter—
"Jennie, say, wilt thou be mine?"
Then her bright face grew still brighter,
And she whispered, "I am thine."
Then they clasped each other fondly,
Close together as two bricks,
And they kissed each other fondly,
And I left them in that fix!

OHIO SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

A Great Meeting Held in Lima.

Lima, O., June 9.—(Special)—Between fifty and sixty delegates from Toledo and the surrounding towns attended the state Sunday school convention at Lima.

Among the number from Toledo were: Rev. J. A. P. McGaw and wife, Mr. L. B. Lake and wife, Rev. McDonald, Miss Hall, Miss Silnecap, Miss Olive Brown, Mr. Trowbridge, Mr. Bopbst, Miss Wilson, Mrs. Milton, Mrs. Cary, Mr. and Mrs. Phelps, Miss Nauts, Mr. Crittenden, Mrs. Jas. Skeldon, Mrs. M. R. Davis, Mr. E. J. Cannon.

Between eight and nine hundred delegates were present.

The convention was opened by President E. L. Barrett. A prayer and praise service was led by Rev. B. W. Childaw, Ohio's Sunday school pioneer. Words of cheer, full of the promises of God's word, fell like benedictions from the lips of this father in Israel.

Fifty-three years ago the first Sunday school in Ohio was planted by this man.

"The Triumphs of Christianity" was illustrated on the blackboard by Morris Sharp, Esq., and then came the appointment of committees.

In the evening E. O. Excel led a gospel and praise service. Rev. Robt. T. Thompson welcomed the delegates to Lima and her homes. President Barret responded.

The "Gospel of Work," by Rev. Sylvester S. Scoville, D. D., and "A Glimpse at the Wide World," by William Reynolds, closed the exercises.

FED THEM ON DOG MEAT.

An Enterprising Butcher Gets Into Trouble.

London, June 9.—The trial has terminated at Lille of a certain Gustav Rasson, his wife and their shopman, who had succeeded in building up a highly prosperous butcher business.

Their sausages, which possessed a peculiarly savory flavor, were talked of for miles. A warrant was issued for their arrest, however, upon a charge of systematically dealing in dogs' flesh and selling it for human food.

In the slaughter house were found 16 dog carcasses, about 60 dog skins, pegged out and drying, and some living dogs.

Questioned by the president, a veterinary surgeon who gave evidence, stated that dogs' flesh was not dangerous to health provided the animal had no diseases.

Several customers of the establishment testified that they had patronized the Rassons because of the distinct and agreeable flavor of their sausage meat.

The Rassons had been in the habit of slaughtering about a dozen dogs a week. The court sentenced Gustav Rasson in default to six months imprisonment, his wife to six months and the shopman to three months, with an additional fine in each case.

THE PAINTERS' UNION

Will be Given a Benefit by Frank Mayo.

Ten Performances to be Given—Cleveland's Minstrels To-morrow Evening.

Frank Mayo has captured Toledoans with his Davy Crockett, and everybody will be pleased to learn that he will remain at the People's another week.

He will give ten performances for the benefit of the Toledo Painters' union, commencing Sunday evening, when Davy Crockett will be given for the last time.

On Monday evening and evenings following, including Sunday, Mr. Mayo will appear in the Streets of New York, playing the part of Tom Badger, his original creation.

Mayo is a grand actor and deserves big houses. Then, too, a worthy organization is to be benefited, and so there will be two good reasons why theater-goers should turn out strong.

Minstrels To-Morrow.

Cleveland's minstrels will hold forth at Wheeler's to-morrow evening, coming direct from the Arch Street theater, Philadelphia, where they scored a big success. The company is a large one, and contains such people as Wm. Henry Rice, Frank Cushman, Leighton, Drew, Somers, Sinclair, Howard, Curnes, the four emperors, and so on. A fine performance is promised.

If you had taken two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring you would not have had that coated tongue or bad taste in the mouth this morning. Keep a vial with you for occasional use.

MR. GLADLIVER'S MISTAKE.

He is Convinced Now That Being Generally Known as a Humorist Doesn't Pay.

Mr. Gladliver was employed as a writer on a morning paper. A while ago he became afflicted with the notion that if he had half a chance he could prepare some very funny stuff for readers to laugh over.

He told the editor of the paper how he felt about, and said he thought it was a real shame for him to hide his humorous light under a bushel when he should be scattering laughter about like sunbeams to brighten the weary, careworn souls around him. He was much pleased when the editor told him to prepare a column for the Sunday paper, and in a gleeful half-hour's work dashed off a number of jokes he felt assured were very clever.

It is true, his topics were not entirely original, but that didn't matter to—Mr. Gladliver. One joke was about a cake the wife baked, one about the hired girl, one about the milkman, one about the neighbor's piano, one about the mother-in-law and one about the grasping landlord and the rickety flat.

He was very proud of his work as a humorist and signed his name to it with a sense of expanding greatness. The column appeared in the Sunday morning paper. Mr. G., who was compelled to remain at the office till noon, expected to find everybody in a fit of laughter when he reached home.

His neighbor saw him coming down the walk and went out and hailed him.

"I see by this morning's paper that you have made some very slighting remarks about our piano, and the manner in which we play it. It's a hundred times better than the old tin pan your people pound 17 hours a day. If it wasn't Sunday I'd teach you—"

But Mr. G. escaped inside his own door, where he ran against the hired girl just leaving with a large bundle.

"Oh, ye dirty sneak," said she, landing a blow on his short ribs, "I'll tache you to slander worrukin' girls!" and before he could explain it was only a joke she had gone out into the cold world, he knew not whither.

The look his wife gave him as he opened the sitting room door froze his marrow.

"You've disgraced the family. I shall apply for a divroce to-morrow, and poor, dear ma, who has always stood up for you when no other self-respecting person could, is packing her trunks and will leave in the morning. The hired girl has gone, and the milkman left word that he would sue you for injuring his business by saying he sold more water than milk!"

A ring at the bell cut short further remarks. Mr. G. opened the door, and there stood the landlord with a glow on his face that somewhat resembled a premature explosion of fireworks.

"I's not the right thing to make a business call Sunday, but I saw your scurrilous remarks in the paper, and I warn you that you'll pay your three months' rent now overdue to-morrow morning and quit my premises immediately, you ungrateful wretch!"

When Mr. Gladliver was able to leave the county hospital he found himself a morose and melancholy man without a friend on earth so far as he knew. He is now living under an assumed name in a cheap, half-furnished room in an obscure part of the city, and he is thoroughly convinced he will never do anything more to brighten up this dreary and unappreciative old world.—Chicago Times.

BOB FORD MURDERED.

The Cowardly Slayer of Jesse James Has Met His Fate.

Denver, Col., June 9.—A special from Creede, Col., says that Bob Ford, the slayer of Jesse James, was shot and killed by Deputy Sheriff Kelly, in Ford's dance hall.

Kelly and Ford had a quarrel in Pueblo in February last and ill-feeling has existed between the two men since.

Yesterday afternoon Kelly was standing in front of Ford's dance hall, when an unknown man was seen to hand him a double-barrel shotgun, after which Kelly stepped inside the hall and called "Bob" Ford, who was about five feet away.

He turned around, at the same time reaching for his hip pocket. Kelly raised his gun and fired a load of buckshot into Ford's neck, severing the windpipe and jugular vein. Ford died instantly. Kelly gave himself up, and refuses to talk.

FIELD'S INSANITY.

Physical Condition of the Ex-Financier Improving.

Buffalo, New York, June 9.—The physical condition of Edward M. Field of New York, who was sent to the state hospital here about two months ago, continues to steadily improve, although Superintendent J. B. Hudson will say nothing as to his mental condition pending his official report to the court.

Field is now allowed out in the grounds of the institution every day, although always accompanied by two guards.

He was committed to this institution in order the question of his sanity might be settled, and should he recover to a sufficient degree he will be taken back to New York for trial on the indictments still holding against him.

TO BAR OUT THE FLOWERS

A Sweet Scented Dispute in a Church.

The Trustees Stove Declared Against Boquets and the Ladies Have Entered a Protest

Philadelphia, June 9.—Unless the trustees of Union church, of Riogelsville, near Doylestown, in this state, rescind their orders relative to the non-wearing of flowers by the ladies attending divine services, the chances are that the congregation will be small next Sunday.

Every spring and summer it is the custom of the women of the congregation in general, and the girls in particular, to wear big bunches of wild flowers on their visits to the edivice to participate in their weekly devotions.

Frequently it happens that the nosegays wither and wilt, and it likewise happens as a consequence that after such occasions the sexton of the church has more sweeping to do than he cares for, in view of the fact that he has reached the allotted three scores and ten, is shaky in the right arm and decidedly badly balanced on his legs.

Hence it has happened that the sexton has served formal notice that he objects to sweeping up on Monday mornings the decayed evidences of former floral beauty, and that the trustees, indignant at the indiscretion of the sanctuary, have decreed that hereafter all flowers worn by the ladies must be left in the vestibule of the edifice.

But the fair sex, on the other hand, has issued its ultimatum, "No flowers, no church," and, as they generally make up about two-thirds of the congregation, the chances are that next Sunday's services will be very slimly attended, unless in the meantime the obnoxious order is revoked.

Johnnie Murphy entered the ring at 9:30 ready to fight. Billy Murphy followed in street costume. He announced he was unable to continue the fight on account of the condition of his right hand which he disabled in the other contest. He praised the ability of his opponent whom he called the best man he ever met. Billy Murphy announced he was in better condition in the late go than when he fought Griffin and he hoped soon to fight the Bostonian for the championship of the world. Referee Sullivan then awarded the fight to Johnnie Murphy and said as far as he was concerned all wagers were off.

He has been training in Pittsburg. Shea has made Wichita his home of late. He is nimble on his feet, a hard hitter and has plenty of pluck. According to the agreement Smith is to knock out Shea in ten rounds. A large number of the sporting fraternity have arrived here from different parts of the United States to witness the mill.

TO RESCUE LIEUT. PEARY

A Meeting to Discuss the Arrangements.

The Kite to be Again Brought Into Use to Bring the Explorer Back to His Home.

Philadelphia, June 9.—(Special.)—The executive committee of the Peary relief expedition has a special meeting to-morrow to decide upon the date for the starting of the expedition. This date will be not earlier than Wednesday of next week, and not later than June 25th.

The committee has already chartered the steamer Kite, with Capt. Pike and the remainder of the old officers. The expedition will be in command of Prof. Angelo Heilprin, who will take with him nine hearty young men, all of whom have volunteered.

Nearly all the money necessary for the purposes of the expedition has been contributed, and the balance will be devoted toward provisioning the vessel and laying in one year's supplies for the Peary party in case they should be needed.

According to the present plans the Kite will sail from St. Johns, Newfoundland, along the eastern shore of the Straits of Belle Isle, and thence along the Labrador coast and across Greenland sea to Ivigtut, going thence to the port of Godshaven on Briscoe Island. It is expected that the Kite will be able to cross Melville Bay at the first breaking of ice at Cape York, and that Peary's headquarters will be reached about July 23.

ORIGIN OF THE TALL HAT.

It First Appeared in France Nearly Five Hundred Years Ago.

The hat proper, that is, the raised hat, was first made in England by Spanish hatters about 1510, having been introduced into France a century earlier. The gay young courtiers of the queen—Elizabeth of immortal memory—shone resplendent in high-crowned hats of rare device, which, like the brilliant Raleigh, they hung round with strings of pearls. Kingsley describes his Elizabethan adventurer, John Oxenham, as having on his head a "broad velvet Spanish hat," and Master Frank Leigh as shading his delicate complexion with "a broad dove-colored Spanish hat, with feather to match, looped up over the ear with a pearl brooch." But hats or caps were worn according to taste or circumstances, says All the Year Round, and Scott tells us that when Leicester rode bareheaded at Elizabeth's side on her entry into Kenilworth, his Esquire had charge of his lordship's black velvet bonnet, garnished with a clasp of diamonds and surmounted with a white plume.

By a statute of 1566 velvet hats or caps were prohibited to all persons under the degree of a knight, and by another, enacted in 1571, every person except ladies, lords, knights and gentlemen having 20 marks a year in landed estate, was required to wear on Sundays and holidays a home-made cap of wool, very decent and comely, for all states and degrees. But these sumptuary laws were openly disregarded. Stubbs, in his "Anatomy of Abusses," describing a pleasing variety of new-fashioned headgear—hats perking up like the spear or shaft of a temple; hats flat and broad on the crown, like the battlements of a house, and round crowns with bands of every color. This variety of shape consorted with an equal variety of material—silk, velvet, taffeta, sarsenet wool and "a fine hair, which they called beaver, fetched from beyond the seas." Whoso had not hat of velvet or hat of taffeta was held of no account among the gilded youth of the time, and so common a thing was this ostentation in the matter of head-covering that "every serving-man, countryman or other, even all indifferently, did wear of these hats."

"Nine months after having the typhoid fever, my head was perfectly bald. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and before I had used half a bottle, the hair began to grow. Two more bottles brought out as good a head of hair as ever I had. On my recommendation, my brother William Craig made use of Ayer's Hair Vigor with the same good results."—Stephen Craig, 832 Charlotte st., Philadelphia, Pa.

IN TRADING CIRCLES.

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 317,317 bu., and at five other western points 115,422 bu.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were, wheat 373,515 bu., and flour to an aggregate of 470,000 bu. Exports of corn, 27,920 bu., and of oats 9,975 bu.

English markets are dull, and Liverpool is lower on wheat. Corn is firm and a shade higher.

The Markets To-day.

More settled weather in the wheat belt, which is indicated by our signal service report herein, has caused some depression in prices to-day, and the weather is yet the key of prices. There are reports of harvest in southern sections in next ten days to two weeks, but the atmosphere must be dryer or such wheat will not be marketable into 10c bu alongside of the old wheat. One element of strength in the market is lost in the covering this week of large losses of short wheat, and now there is less inducement to force remaining shorts into buying, and the shorts are made to feel secure by easier markets.

Opening prices were a shade higher, but what little news there has been stirring has been bearish, and prices have been weak and easier on wheat, and the markets dull.

Corn has felt the effects of brighter weather predictions and has ruled lower, but the decline is more east than west.

In New York June wheat closed 1-4c. July 3-8c lower. June corn unchanged. July 1-8c lower. June oats 1-8c lower.

In Chicago June and July wheat closed 5-8c lower. June corn 1-2c. July 1-8c to 1-4c lower. July oats 1-8c lower.

In Toledo business has been very dull to-day. It has been a listless, uneventful and uninteresting market, and but for the occasional episode of a bulletin from the present Mecca of the republican party, it would have been indeed a dull day. There is nothing like politics to stir the blood. Prices have ruled quite steady, and at close the decline on July and August wheat is 1-4c, and June and cash unchanged. On the call July sold at 90 3-8c and August at 88 3-8c. After the call July sold at 90 3-8c and closed at 90 1-4c; August sold at 88 1-4c and closed at 88c.

Cash wheat was quite dull. Eastern buyers are out of the market to-day, but prices are unchanged. No 2 soft sold at 92 1-2c and 93c in L. S.; No. 3 soft at 90c. Nothing done in other grades.

Corn—No. 2 at 52 1-2c, July at 51c to 51 1-2c, August at 52c, No. 3 at 51 1-2c, No. 4 at 47c.

Nothing doing in oats or rye.

Wheat opened strong at 3-8 advance; subsequently weakened and fell 5-8, but toward noon rallied 3-8; No. 2 red winter, 1 00 cash; 91 1-4 June; 92 1-4 July; 93 August; 93 3-8 September. Corn was irregular throughout and generally 5-8 lower at noon; No. 2 mixed, 59 cash; 58 June; 55 3-4 July; 54 3-4 August. Rye dull but steady; car lots, 84@87. Oats dull; No. 2 mixed, 37 1-2 cash; 37 3-8 June; 37 1-4 July. Barley neglected. Molasses steady; New Orleans, 30@36 for good to fancy. Sugar refined moderately active and steady; cutloaf and crushed, 5@5 1-8; powdered, 4 3-4@4 7-8; granulated, 4 3-8@4 5-8. Coffee dull; fair rio cargoes, 15 3-4. Rice nominal. Pork dull but steady; mess 9 75@10 50 for old. Lard quiet; 6 65 July; 6 72 August. Butter firm on a small trading; new creamery state extras, 16 1-2@18 1-2; western do, 16 1-2@17. Cheese dull but steady; state factory full cream, 9 1-4@9 3-8. Eggs weak, select choice, 16 1-2@16 3-4; western do, do, 16 1-4@16 1-2. Turpentine firm at 29 1-2@30. Rosin easier; strained to good, 1 30@1 35. Tallow dull; prime city, 4 1-2. Petroleum nominal. Freights quiet; grain to London steam, 1 1-2d.

New York, June 9.—Money easy at 1 1-2 per cent. Exchange steady; posted rates, 488@489 1-2; actual rates 487 1-4@487 1-2 for 60 days and 488 1-2@488 3-4 for demand.

Governments steady; currencys 106 bid; 4s coup. 117 1-4 bid; extended 2s registered 100 bid.

Trading on the stock exchange was on a very limited scale this morning. The Villards, Burlington, Rock Island, Reading, L. & N., Nor. Pac. pfd., Wheeling and the Sugar trusts were about the only stocks traded in. Prices were generally firm; notwithstanding the extreme dullness and at noon were 1-8 to 1 1-8 per cent. higher, the latter in Nor. Pac. pfd. At this writing the market is dull. The sales for the morning amounted to 110,000 shares.

THE YARDMASTERS.

The Ohio and Indiana Delegation.

One of the Delegates Writes the Bee About Their Trip—The Personnel of the Party.

Under the date of June 7 the following communication from "Yardmaster" reaches the Bee:

As the friends of the "Innocents on the Rail" may be anxious to know how it fares with the delegates to the "Third Annual Convention of Railroad Yardmasters," to be held at Lincoln, Neb., the 8th, it is with pleasure we announce that the Ohio and Indiana contingent arrived here safely about 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Chicago was the meeting point for parties from Toledo, Columbus, Cincinnati, Fort Wayne and Indianapolis, though the Big Four train that left Cincinnati at 8:20 p. m. Sunday carried several representatives from those places, and at Indianapolis took on a few more, landing the party in Chicago at 7:30 a. m. yesterday.

The day was spent in the Windy City according to each one's pleasure, and at 5:45 p. m. the party was aboard the palace car "Lynn," on the C., B. & Q., and off for Lincoln, Neb.

The trip was a delightful one, and without accident of any kind. The officers of the roads over which we traveled were courteous and obliging in every respect. On arrival here the party was met by a committee of members of the association and their ladies and escorted to the Windsor hotel, where, after a brief rest, dinner was announced, and all hands were glad to answer to the call.

The reception committee consisted of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Sparks, Mrs. E. B. Manchester, Miss Grace Sparks, Mrs. C. E. Rector, Miss Emma Purcell, Miss May Manchester, Mr. and Mrs. E. Sheelock, Mr. C. J. McLaughlin, Mr. W. A. Manchester and Mr. D. B. Murphy.

The following is a list of the train party: Hon. Wm. Kirkby, Toledo, O., commissioner of railroads and telegraphs for Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Hicks, Miss Mamie Hicks, Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. R. Marshall, Miss Nellie Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coneys, Miss Lulu Coneys, Cincinnati, O.; Miss Mattie Prahl, Wilkinsburg, Pa.; A. L. Dunbar, Cleveland; Mr. W. H. Francisco, William Thomas, John Naddy, Columbus, O.; Col. A. D. Shaw, deputy third auditor United States treasury, Washington, D. C.; J. H. Wetrick, Tiffin, O., secretary to Commissioner Kirkby.

HOW DAD WAS FOOLED.

He Thought He Was Getting the Better of the Tin Pedler, but He Didn't.

You know how a pig is on the farm unless confined to a pen—always wanting to get somewhere else. One day one of our pigs got into the stable and was kicked by a horse, one eye was put out and his jaw broken, and though he got well his jaw was turned to the right and his snout mashed flat. It would set one laughing just to look at him. He had only fairly recovered from his adventure when he got caught in a rail fence and twisted his spine until he was bent almost double. When he got out of bed again he was the oddest looking pig in four states. When he walked he had to go broadside on, and he never knew which pair of legs was in front or which behind. One day a tin peddler happened to come along and noticed the animal and quietly asked the "old man" how much he'd take for that pig.

"Wall," replied father, winking at Tom and I, "hogs is up, you know."

"Yes, I know that pork has advanced."

"Guess that pig ought to bring three dollars."

"I'll give you two."

"He's worth a dollar more, but bein' it's you I'll take it," said father.

For the next two weeks we cracked a good many jokes at that tin peddler's expense, as father would have given the pig to anybody for the asking. About a month after the sale Fourth of July came around and we all went to town—six of us. Among the attractions was a sideshow, and its chief sign was a painting of a curious sort of animal, and underneath the information:

THE ONLY HODAG
ever exhibited in America. Pronounced by naturalists to be the greatest wonder on the face of the earth. The only one known to be in existence.
DON'T MISS THE HODAG!
If you do you will regret it as long as you live. He is to be sent to England next week.

Father put on his spectacles and read that sign twice over, and then turned to mother and said:

"Guess we'd better go in. I've seen skunks and lions and possums and hyenas by the cartload, but I never saw a hodag."

"There's six of us, and that's a dollar and a half," replied mother.

"Oh, wall, it won't bust us. If our nayburs see the consarned thing and we don't they'll be crowin' about it fur a year. I guess we'll take in the hodag. It'll be sumthin' fur the children to ponder over." Father yielded up a dollar and a half and in we went. The cage was at the opposite end of the tent, and as we went in a lecturer was saying: "Ladies and gentlemen—We have the assurance of no less than five well known naturalists that this is the only living specimen of the hodag now in existence. He was captured in a hyena trap in South Africa and was brought over here at a cost of $3,000. Come and gaze on this wonder of the nineteenth century."

We crowded up to gaze. Next minute the four children of us were laughing fit to split, while mother was so overcome she had to sit down.

"What in creation has struck you folks?" demanded father, as he wiped off his glasses.

We laughed all the harder, and he adjusted his glasses in a solemn manner and turned to inspect the greatest living curiosity. One look was enough. His jaw fell, the color fled from his face and he made for the door with the five of us following. Not a word was said until we were clear of the tent. Then father stopped and looked at each one of our grinning faces in rotation and exclaimed:

"D'ed rot my shoes if that ain't the crippled hog we sold to the tin peddler, but I want to say to you right here and now that if any one of you ever says 'hodag' in my hearin' I'll turn you out doors without a second shirt to your back."

BOARDMAN & GRAY PIANOS
ESTABLISHED 1837.
Sold continuously since 1870 at 219 Summit Street.

This make, sold in large numbers for more than 21 years by a reliable house, recommended and indorsed by nearly all of the best musicians and teachers in Toledo, has become a formidable barrier to the sale of other first-class pianos offered by competing dealers and their agents, by reason of their constantly increasing sale and popularity. Competitors, alarmed and uneasy, resort to many unreasonable as well as untrue statements, which they work off on confiding individuals, and cause them to be circulated in this city and elsewhere. Among these old chestnuts, is the statement that "The Whitney & Currier company manufacture the Boardman & Gray, or have a proprietary interest in their manufacture, and are actuated by that interest, to praise their merit and push their sale." The first part of this statement is untrue. This company has no proprietary interest in the manufacture of any piano. It is actuated in recommending the Boardman & Gray piano by the same motives which actuate any honest individual in recommending that which he knows to be of superior merit, and also by the same motives any one would have in pushing the sale of any successful meritorious article in which a reasonable profit may be realized, and that which is true of Boardman & Gray in this respect, is true of other makes this company has for sale. The superior facilities the Whitney & Currier company has in purchasing, enable it to give greater value for a like sum of money than can be had of its competitors. No other house can show an equal line of first-class Pianos, nor the number from which to select in making a purchase. All are invited to call and see for themselves, whether wishing to buy or not.

Why Should Piano Dealers and Their Agents Go Out of Their Way to Decry the Superior Merits of the Boardman & Gray Pianos? The Reason is Obvious.
